NEBRASKAN CHECKS ON HEART

Two heart transplant patients in Houston, Tex., compare electrocardiagram charts on the beat of their new hearts. Henry W. Jurgens, 57, of Beatrice, Neb., left, and Fred C. Everman of Alexandria, Va., are both making good progress in their recovery. Jurgens received his new heart July 23, Everman his July 20.

TROOPS ENTER CZECH MEET

. . . Sporadic Clashes Reported

Prague (AP) — A Soviet invasion forces seized Communist Party chief Alexander Dubcek and other reformist leaders Wednesday night and sped them off to an unknown destination, a Prague broadcast reported. Troops also entered the parliament building as the assembly sat in session.

But 24 hours after their military take over of Czechoslovakia, the Soviets appeared to be having trouble setting up a political regime that would reverse the Dubcek liberalization movement and follow the old Kremlin line.

The Russians and their allies moved more troops into Czechoslovakia from Poland as sporadic clashes broke out between civilians and the invaders. At least 23 persons, including some Soviet soldiers, were reported killed in incidents since the invasion began late Tuesday night.

A curfew was imposed on Prague between midnight and 5 a.m. A broadcast said troops would fire without challenge at anyone who appeared on the streets.

Machine Gun Fire

Bursts of heavy machine gun fire and small arms fire continued in Prague Wednesday night.

Radio stations broadcasting messages in support of Dubcek were still on the air. Soviet and other foreign forces had occupied all regular broadcast installations and cut wires in them.

Prague radio was seized, but continued to broadcast under that name from a clandestine site. The Czechoslovak news agency Ceteka — CTK — reported the invasion news freely throughout Wednesday. But late Wednesday its wire link with Vienna announced its offices had just been occupied by foreign troops and "at this moment the free news activity of Ceteka is ending."

A broadcast said Dubcek; National Assembly President Joseph Smrkovsky; Joseph Spacek and Frantisek Kriegel, presidium members, were taken by Soviet Soldiers from the Central Committee building where they had been restricted all day.

In Washington, President Johnson denounced as "patently contrived" a Soviet claim the invasion was in answer to appeals from Czechoslovak leaders for help in preserving communism. Johnson urged the Soviet-led invaders to withdraw their troops.

The parliament earlier had approved a proclamation demanding that the foreign armies withdraw.

Soviets Jamming Radio Broadcasts

Washington (UPI) — The Soviet Union Wednesday resumed heavy jamming of the Russian language broadcasts of the Voice of America for the first time in five years, U.S. officials said.

They said that the Russians were also jamming British and West German broadcasts.

Officials said that by Wednesday afternoon Moscow Radio had not informed Soviet Citizens of the details of the invasion of Czechoslovakia.

They said Voice of America in English, Lithuanian, Estonian, Latvian and Georgian languages, broadcasts carrying much Czech news, were reaching the Soviet Union unimpeded.

Dubcek Accused

Moscow (AP) — The Soviet Union Thursday condemned Czechoslovak Communist Party chief Alexander Dubcek by name and accused him of leading a minority faction that supported counter-revolution.

Pontiff Flying To Colombia

Rome (UPI) — Pope Paul VI's jetliner took off from the Rome airport early Thursday for the 12-hour nonstop flight to Bogota, Colombia.

The pontiff's trip, to the 39th International Eucharistic Congress in the South American city, is the longest of his six abroad.

Police Blast Into Ohio Prison, Kill 5 Inmates

Columbus, Ohio (AP) — Five inmates were killed when authorities blasted through thick walls of the Ohio Penitentiary Wednesday afternoon and released nine guards held hostage nearly 30 hours.

Warden Marion J. Koloski said the death toll "may go to six."

None of the guards was injured. They were greeted by cheers as they emerged from behind the walls.

Several Injured

Several convicts were injured along with three city policemen as National Guardsmen, police and state patrolmen stormed the cell blocks where prisoners had barricaded themselves.

Koloski said five inmates were shot. Another was believed critically injured when a wall fell on him. He was dug out of the rubble.

Officers found one inmate with his throat slashed. His condition was critical and it was believed he had been assaulted by other inmates.

The trouble had erupted Tuesday morning when an inmate overpowered a guard, stole his keys and released other prisoners. The convicts then grabbed guards as hostages. More than 300 convicts among the 2,500 imprisoned men were involved in the rebellion.

Maury C. Koblentz, state corrections chief who bargained through the entire time for release of the hostages, Wednesday afternoon, gave the rebel inmates "one last chance to release them."

When they failed to produce the hostages, a dynamite blast was set off at the outside wall of cells where the prisoners were holed up. A few seconds later another dynamite blast tore through the roof of the cell block.

Officers streamed into the gaping hole in the wall and others scaled down ropes from the roof.

Three-Department Merger Proposed

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

The governor's "Little Hoover Commission" Wednesday proposed that three state departments — Health, Welfare and Public Institutions — be consolidated into a new Department of Social Services.

The commission recommended an in-depth feasibility study leading to the consolidation or the combining of overlapping activities.

The commission, comprising 42 businessmen appointed by Gov. Norbert T. Tiemann to make a management and cost analysis of state government, said this and other recommended steps in the Public Institutions Department could save the state $4 million annually.

Nebraska's 12 public institutions and five health clinics, with an annual operating budget of $29 million, pose complex problems in management and operating costs, and require the coordination and cooperation of three departments having overlapping responsibility.

"A new department combining the jurisdictions of the separate agencies, but eliminating unnecessary personnel, would increase efficiency and reduce costs," the commission said.

The proposed new department would be coordinated into eight divisions: administrative services, health, welfare, vocational rehabilitation, mental health and mental retardation, correctional services and special institutional services.

Review Of Collecting Costs

Also recommended by the commission, headed by Phil Gass of Omaha, was a review of collecting 10% of patient care costs in state-owned hospitals from the patient or relatives.

An increase to 17% would bring an additional $2:2 million in revenue, of which 90% would be a savings to the counties.

The commission also recommended the department's six farms be sold, bringing an estimated $2 million into state coffers, and eliminating an $100,000 annual operating loss.

Other recommendations:

—Utilize Nebraska Prison Industries as maintenance and repair facility for the proposed state motor vehicle pool.

—Utilize the Penal Complex's print shop as the centralized printing facility for the state and develop a centrally-operated laundry to service all state institutions.

—Study feasibility of consolidating dietary operations for the state institutions.

—Expand the recently completed engineering study on the state mental hospitals to an evaluation of a long-range rebuilding program for the Penal Complex.

—Expand in-service training for correctional officers.

The commission suggested legislation requiring parents of juvenile delinquents to pay part of the cost of institutionalization as is now required of parents of mentally retarded children.

In other areas, the commission recommended:

—The Labor Department permit privately accredited training schools to offer courses needed by unemployed workers.

—Transfer of the Labor Department's safety section to the newly proposed Public Safety Department.

—The state fire marshal replace the present fixed assessment rate with a flexible scale to provide adequate operating funds for his office.

—That the state parole officer utilize air travel in round trips of 1,000 miles or more in returning parole violators.

Increased Heart Actions Plaguing Gen. Eisenhower

Washington (AP) — Army doctors reported Wednesday night evidence of increased heart "irritability" in former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, but said he was resting comfortably and his life signs were stable.

The doctors did not spell out what they meant by irritability in the medical bulletin. However, it pointed to a setback.

An earlier bulletin on his condition said there had been no recurrence of the periodic irregular heart action which has been a cause of concern since his seventh heart seizure, suffered last Friday.

Large Rockets Slam Saigon

Saigon (AP) — Communist gunners slammed 20 large rockets into Saigon Thursday and launched widespread attacks at numerous points in the region around the capital.

Speculation increased that a long-expected new enemy offensive against Saigon and major cities in Vietnam was on the verge of breaking over allied defenders.

Incomplete reports on the Saigon shelling by 122 mm Soviet-built rockets said 15 persons were killed and more than 45 wounded. One of the dead was a Japanese correspondent, Tatsuo Sakai, 33. He was the 19th correspondent to die while covering the Vietnam war.

The U.S. Command said it had no reports of American casualties.

Those waiting for treatment in Saigon hospitals appeared to be mostly children.

Two rockets hit the National Assembly building in the heart of Saigon and the explosion smashed several windows in Saigon's most luxurious hotel, the Caravelle, and other buildings.

Another round hit near a guardhouse outside the former presidential palace a few blocks away, but apparently caused little damage. Most of the rounds hit in residential and slum areas.

Especially heavy attacks were reported between Saigon and Tay Ninh City, the provincial capital 45 miles northwest of Saigon which was partly seized by the Communists Sunday.

U.S. military sources said large enemy units apparently were moving through a corridor about 30 miles northwest of Saigon under cover of the attacks. If so, their likely destination seemed to be the area immediately west of Saigon.

Tah Ninh city, where four city blocks were burned out during Sunday's fighting, was hit by 50 mortar rounds. Another 50 landed outside the city. A Vietnamese air force pilot said the city was dotted by fires when he flew over it.

The heaviest attacks, however, came between Tay Ninh and Saigon and fell on units of the U.S. 25th Infantry Division.

Sunday Journal And Star Honored

Athens, Ga. — The Lincoln Sunday Journal and Star received a merit award from the Soil Conservation Society of America here Wednesday evening during the society's 23rd annual awards program, which was attended by more than 1,000 natural resource conservationists from the United States and Canada.

The merit award presented to the Sunday Journal and Star by society President Frank H. Mendell of Des Moines, Iowa, was in recognition of the paper's sponsorship of the annual Nebraska Honor Farm Family Award, now in its 22nd year of recognizing outstanding farm and ranch families, and for the Watershed of the Year program that began in 1962 to sponsor a Nebraska entry in the National Watershed Congress.

Mendell said the Soil Conservation Society of America merit award is designed to honor and draw public attention to organizations for outstanding activities that promote the science and art of good land use.

Other Winners

Other 1968 merit winners included the International Paper Co., the Theodore Roosevelt Council of Boy Scouts of America, the Family Herald of Montreal, Quebec; the Carolina Power and Light Co., of Raleigh, N.C., and the Progressive Farmer of Memphis, Tenn.

Eikleberry Hutchinson

Two Nebraskans were named to key positions in the society during the annual meeting with the announcement made at the awards banquet.

Robert W. Eikleberry, soil correlator for interpretations for the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Soil Conservation Service at Lincoln, was named president-elect and D. E. Hutchinson, state soil conservationist for the USDA's service at Lincoln, was elected to the national council.

Eikleberry succeeds Ray Hunter of Berkely, Calif., who will become president of the society.

Eikleberry was cited by the society in 1966 for service to the organization as chairman of the national membership committee. He has served the Lincoln chapter of the society as secretary, treasurer and president.

Hutchinson was named to serve a three-year term on the society council. He is currently chairman of the organization's natural vegetation committee and was cited by the society last year for his work as head of this committee.

Both Eikleberry and Hutchinson are charter members of the society and have been named fellows of the society.

New York Times News Summary

Six Czech Leaders Seized By Soviet Troops

(c) New York Times News Service

Prague — Six liberal Czechoslovak Communist leaders, including the party's first secretary, Alexander Dubcek, were reported to have been seized by Soviet troops and removed to an undisclosed destination. But the presence of 200,000 troops in Czechoslovakia was not capable of producing a new Czechloslovak leadership. (More on Page 1.)

'Russians, Go Home'

Prague —The crisis, in which 23 persons have died, began early Wednesday when the citizens of Prague awoke to the roar of Soviet planes and the rumble of tanks. People ran out of their houses and stood in the streets and wept. "Russians, go home," they yelled. But, although there was some bitter street fighting, most of the resistance was passive. (More on Page 1).

Shelling Of Saigon Resumed

Saigon — The enemy resumed the shelling of Saigon Tuesday after a two-month lull. Meanwhile, 44 miles to the northwest, American forces killed 182 of the enemy in a battle on a rubber plantation. (More on Page 1.)

Invasion Vigorously Protested

United Nations, N.Y. — The Dubcek government vigorously protested the invasion. In another statement, the Presidium of the Czechoslovak National Assembly demanded withdrawal of the troops and told Czechoslovak workers they would be able to defend themselves "if necessary," by a general strike. Meanwhile, the Security Council voted to place the crisis on its agenda by 13 votes to 2, despite protests by the Soviet Union that the events in Czechoslovakia were not the council's concern. (More an Page 3.)

Bishops Take Major Step

London — There was a heated verbal battle at the Lambeth Conference. After six hours, the Anglican bishops took a major step toward full recognition of the sacramental authority of non-Anglican clergymen not ordained by bishops.

Kennedy Hits War Policy

Worcester, Mass. — "There is no safety in hiding. Not for me," said a somber Sen. Edward M. Kennedy as he made his first public appearance since the assassination in June of his brother, Sen. Robert F. Kennedy. In a speech, he strongly indicted the Johnson administration's war policy. (More on Page 20.)

Platform Fight Squelched

Chicago — The sudden turn of events in Czechoslovakia appeared to have squelched a major fight within the Democratic Platform Committee over the Vietnam plank. Key committee members now favor a simple plank calling for an early peace but endorsing the administration's policy of "collective security." (More on Page 46.)

World Leaders Condemn Reds

By United Press International

In one night the Soviet Union incurred the wrath and condemnation of the world's youth and leaders who convoked emergency government sessions in capitals around the globe.

Reaction to the Soviet-led invasion of Czechoslovakia Wednesday was quick and unanimous in its stern disapproval. Students in cities around the world staged or planned massive protest marches. In Bonn, West Germany, youths threw eggs at the Soviet embassy.

British Prime Minister Harold Wilson issued a statement which said the invasion was "a tragedy not only for Czechoslovakia but for Europe and the whole world."

Wilson, accusing the Soviet Union of violating the United Nations charter and all accepted standards of international behavior," returned from a vacation and summoned an emergency cabinet meeting.

Parliament Called

The British government decided to call Parliament into session Monday to discuss the Czech crisis and Wilson scheduled a Cabinet meeting for Thursday.

The Italian, Danish, Swedish and Norwegian governments convened emergency sessions to debate the crisis. French President Charles de Gaulle summoned his premier and foreign minister to his country retreat for a crisis conference and West Germany summoned the Soviet ambassador for a conference.

The Swedish government issued a statement which said, "Once again it has happened that in a Communist country a liberation movement has been stopped by violence."

In London more than 105 demonstrators chanting "Russians go home" marched on the Soviet embassy.

The Italian Communist Party, largest outside Eastern Europe and China, said the military action by the Soviet Union, East Germany, Poland, Bulgaria and Hungary was not reconcilable "with the principles of autonomy and independence of every Communist Party and every socialist state."

Surprise Expressed

The French party expressed "surprise and disapproval at the military intervention in Czechoslovakia."

The Israeli party said the invasion was "a black day in the history of the Communist movement."

"This is the end of Communist solidarity," an Israeli party statement said. "Moscow will yet hear more from the Czechs."

Arab government radios broadcast news of the invasion without comment.

The Australian Communist Party also denounced the Soviet-led invasion.

The Japan Socialist Party termed the invasion "a wanton act" and demanded Soviet and other Warsaw Pact forces withdraw.

In Bonn, a crowd of about 50 youths threw eggs and rocks at the Soviet embassy and delayed Ambassador Semyon Tsarapkin's meeting with West German Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger.

SOVIETS OCCUPY PRAGUE

Invasion Raises Problems

By LEWIS GULICK

Washington (AP) — The Kremlin's iron-fisted clampdown on Czechoslovakia has dealt a stunning blow to a cornerstone of President Johnson's foreign policy and raised problems for his successor.

Until the Soviets and their Warsaw Pact allies swept in with military force to snuff out budding freedom in Czechoslovakia, Johnson could focus on some bright markers laboriously etched in his long effort to build bridges toward the Communist East:

These included: The treaty to ban the spread of nuclear weapons; the U.S.-Soviet consular accord finally approved by the U.S. Senate; the beginning at last of commercial air flights between the two nations; pacts to outlaw weapons in outer space and to aid downed astronauts of either country.

Now the Kremlin's strong-arming against Prague — as against Hungary a dozen years ago — has thrown a cloud over U.S.-Soviet relations and seems likely to raise pressures in the United States against further accommodations with the Reds.

Johnson's reaction to the Soviet military move was sharp and pointed. He called it tragic and contrived, a flat violation of the United Nations charter. But he tempered this with an appeal to Moscow to reconsider its action, saying, "It is never too late for reason to prevail."

Johnson's proposals for loosening restrictions against trade with the Communists were already well bogged down in Congress.

Soviet Propaganda Explains Invasion To Russian People

© New York Times Service

Moscow — The Soviet Union unleashed the full power of its propaganda arsenal Wednesday to justify to the Soviet people and the world the reasons for its invasion of Czechoslovakia.

Insistent emphasis was put on the theme that troops of the Soviet Union and four Communist allies had moved into the country in fraternal response to an appeal by Czechoslovak "party and government leaders." The Czechoslovaks who made the appeal were not identified.

The military action was imperative, the Soviet Union asserted, because Communist rule in Czechoslovakia had fallen under peril from "counter revolutionary forces" and "foreign forces hostile to socialism."

Leading Moscow newspapers appeared late Wednesday morning with a government-authorized statement by Tass, the press agency, explaining the invasion. The Moscow radio broadcast the statement and quickly followed with expressions of grateful endorsement by workers and other citizens throughout the country.

Izvestia Prints Appeal

Wednesday evening, Izvestia, the government newspaper, printed a frontpage appeal to the Czechoslovak people by the alleged group of Communists who had requested military intervention.

The appeal pledged stability to reforms in the "deformed" Czechoslovak society and charged that anticommunist forces had plotted to use the democratization for a breach with the Communist bloc and a restoration of capitalism.

Moscow was quiet Wednesday, with no evidence of any alarm over the implications of the military action. Some Muscovites turned pale, however, when informed Wednesday morning of the invasion.

A lengthy explanation of the invasion, authorized by the Soviet leadership, was printed in Pravda, the Communist Party newspaper, and broadcast by the Moscow radio.

The article was written by Yuri Zhukov, an influential political commentator who signaled preparations for the invasion by a sharp attack on Czechoslovak liberal newspapers last Friday, breaking a three-week ceasefire in polemics.

Moscow Feared Purge

Zhunkov indicated that Moscow's decision to take resolute action had been motivated largely by concern that a Czechoslovak party congress, planned for next month, would purge conservatives from the party's central committee and politburo.

Moscow hinted at this Tuesday in publishing a forecast by a Yugoslav newspaper, Borba, that 75 per cent of the membership of the Czechoslovak Central Committee would be purged. Such a purge would have wiped out any hopes the Soviet Union had for an ultimate comeback of conservative, pro-Moscow elements in the party.

Tito Attacks Soviet Move; Bans Protest

Belgrade (UPI) — President Tito of Yugoslavia, who led his nation out of the Kremlin orbit 20 years ago, Wednesday said the Soviet Union had "terribly" violated Czechoslovakia's sovereignty.

Tito, a firm supporter of the Dubcek regime, nevertheless banned pro-Czech demonstrations in Yugoslavia in an attempt to avoid what he called "serious provocations."

The Yugoslav chief conferred with aides at his island retreat of Brioni in the Adriatic sea and called a meeting of leaders of the Yugoslav presidium and central committee to discuss the Czech crisis.

Tito summoned the entire 153-member central committee into session Friday, further underscoring Belgrade's anxiety over the developments in Czechoslovakia where Tito received a hero's welcome during a visit earlier this month.

Czechoslovakia's foreign minister, Jiri Hajek, had been vacationing in Yugoslavia at Split.

No Clinic Action In Near Future

. . . Osborne Assures Hastingites

Hastings (AP)—Dr. Robert Osborne, director of the state's mental hospitals, promised the Central Nebraska Mental Hygiene Clinic at Hastings Wednesday that no action would be taken on transferring its functions without further discussion with members.

Dr. Osborne said studies made by the state have indicated that the Hastings State Hospital could well become a regional mental health center, and if this were done it would be proper to make the clinic a part of the hospital.

Dr. Osborne earlier had expressed the opinion that the work of the clinic could be done better at the state hospital.

The association of Hastings people who originally backed the clinic countered with the request that the clinic be given a full staff — which it never has had — and be given two years in which to demonstrate its effectiveness before any change is ordered.

Dr. Osborne said no immediate decision will be made "although the arguments strongly favor it."

Security Council Votes To Denounce Soviets

United Nations, N.Y. (AP) — The Western Powers denounced the Soviet Union Wednesday night for its armed invasion of Czechoslovakia and demanded at an emergency session of the Security Council an immediate Soviet withdrawal.

U.S. Ambassador George W. Ball led the assault, accusing the Soviet Union of "a gross act of perfidy" and portraying the Kremlin leadership as harrassed and nervous. He said it sought to perpetuate a brand of communism which he described as a "kind of fungus which will die when exposed to the sunlight of freedom."

The council brushed aside Soviet objections to debating the issue and voted overwhelmingly to launch a full-scale debate on the soviet-led armed iinvasion of Czechslovakia.

In bitter debate that mirrored increased East-West tension, Ball locked horns with Soviet Ambassador Jacob A. Malik throughout the evening.

In a dramatic appearance after the vote, Jan Muzik, Czechoslovakia's representative to the session, read aloud the protests of Prague's leaders against the occupation, stressing that no one in his government's legitimate government had sought the intervention.

Malik contended that the council had no business to consider the matter. He said the Soviet Union and its Warsaw Pact allies acted "for the consilidation and internal peace and security" of Czechoslovakia.

Ball retorted that this was a fraud, and urged the council to proceed with the task of airing fully all aspects of the invasion.

Earlier the debate on whether the council should put the question on the agenda lasted almost two hours. At the conclusion Malik said he would not press for a vote. But Ball insisted that a vote be taken.

The vote was 13 in favor and two opposed — the Soviet Union and Hungary.

Wilber Finds Czech News Disheartening

Wilber (UPI) — More than 80% of the residents of this southeast Nebraska town of 1,400 persons are of Czechoslovakian descent.

And Wednesday, Mayor Glen Zajicek said they were "very disheartened" by the movement of Russian troops into the eastern European country during the night.

"Right now they are wondering what's going to happen and what is happening now," he said. "I think this will wake up a lot of people in the United States to what's happening. They'll see it's hard to negotiate with the Russians or trust them. The Russians have shown their true colors again."

Zajicek said one Wilber family, Mr. and Mrs. John Bouchal, are in Prague at the moment visiting relatives. "We haven't heard from them so we have no idea how they are," he said.

'Pray For Freedom'

Father Wenceslaus Bernarek, who is priest of the local Catholic Church, said the developments showed that Alexander Dubcek and other new Czech leaders "must be true leaders of democracy and freedom. Otherwise this would not have happened.

"I have had many displaced persons from Czechoslovakia tell me they thought the earlier developments were fine developments," he said. "We just pray they will get their freedom."

State's '67 Accidental Deaths Were 7 Pct. Below '66 Mark

Chicago (UPI) — Accidental deaths in Nebraska decreased in 1967, but the state's death rate from accidents remained well above the national average, the National Safety Council said.

Figures released by the council showed 936 accidental deaths occurred in Nebraska in 1967, a drop of 7% from the 1,014 deaths which occurred in 1966. But the council said Nebraska's rate of 65.2 accidental deaths per 100,000 population was above the national rate of 56.6 per 100,000.

Council figures showed 445 persons died in traffic accidents in 1967 in Nebraska — a rate of 31 per 100,000 population or 5.2 per 100 million miles traveled in the state.

Accidents in the home claimed an additional 182 lives with on the job accidents killing another 89 persons, the council said. It said the remaining deaths were attributed to various other causes.

The council said work accidents, both fatal and non-fatal, resulted in a reported reimbursement of $6.2 million to employes in the state.

Lincoln Ranked 43rd

In the 27 cities in the nation with populations of 200,000 to 350,000, Omaha was ranked 21st in frequency of traffic deaths in 1967 with a total of 37 or 11 per 100,000 population, the council said.

It said Lincoln, which had 15 traffic deaths for a rate of 10.5 per 100,000 population, ranked 43rd in frequency of death among the 74 cities with populations of 100,000 to 200,000.

$71,260 Paid For Norfolk's Prized Herd

. . . $1,725 Top Price

Norfolk (AP) — Seventy buyers from five states paid $71,260 for 119 head of cattle as the Norfolk State Hospital's prize-winning herd went on the auction block.

Top price was $1,725 paid by the Champ Goodward Farms of Elsburry, Mo., for a cow judged grand champion at a recent district Black and White Show. Second high price was -1,625 paid by Don Lubbert of West Point.

The herd was sold at the direction of the State Institutions Department, which said the cost of maintaining the herd could not be justified from a therapeutic standpoint.

Three persons lost their lives Wednesday on Nebraska's highways, including a two-fatality south of Stapleton. The third death was a Marine who lost his life early Wednesday in a one-car accident near Lincoln.

Joe N. Andrews, 79, Cody, and Joe Steele, 20, Arnold, were killed in a two-car accident at an intersection on U.S. 83 about six miles south of Stapleton, the State Patrol and Logan County sheriff's officers reported.

Girl Is Critical

A passenger in the Steele car, Jeanne Sheets, 19, Arnold, was taken to a North Platte hospital where her condition was termed critical.

Charles P. Martininch, 20, of South Euclid, Ohio, was killed early Wednesday when the small sports car he was driving went out of control on Interstate 80 just west of Lincoln. The State Patrol said the car went down an exit embankment and rolled over several times.

Hospitalized in Lincoln with apparent minor injuries was Wayne A. Maher, 21, of Chicago, a passenger. Both men were on leave from the El Toro Marine Air Station at Santa Ana, Calif.

Lois J. Karr, 31, North Platte, died Tuesday evening when the car in which she was riding apparently missed a curve on a county road two miles northeast of North Platte and overturned in a field.

State Trooper John Shearer said the driver, James Wilkenson, 27, North Platte, was uninjured but another passenger in the auto, Lois Conruff, about 30, also of North Platte, was hospitalized.

The deaths raised the Nebraska traffic count for the year to 274, compared with 271 on the same date last year.

Six Nebraskans To Receive Top Degree Of FFA

The Department of Education reported Tuesday that six Nebraska members of the Future Farmers of America will be recommended for the organization's highest degree — the American Farmer — at the Oct. 15-18 national convention in Kansas City.

The state director of vocational agriculture, B. E. Gingery, said the FFA headquarters reported national FFA officers and the board of directors agreed the six should be recommended to the convention's delegates.

The six are Larry L. Holbein of Lexington, David O. Vesely of Verdel, Bruce Hild of Neligh, Kenneth Nagel of Lincoln, Richard Schurman of Nickerson and Jerry Leach of Ainsworth.

EVENTS

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

In its march into Czechoslovakia, the Soviet Union has again unmasked communism for what it is — a brutal force which subjects the individual to the power and authority of the state. The communist movement, not the people, is the thing of supreme importance and that is a tragedy.

From many nations of the world, including some communist nations, have come expressions of shock at this Soviet step and sorrow for the Czech people. In recent months, the Czechs have established a political and economic independence of Moscow while still retaining a communist government.

The Czech people rid themselves of former hard-line communist leaders and found Alexander Dubcek to lead them in their new freedom movement. He has done an admirable job of it but we would hate to have much money riding on him now.

Fifteen years ago this summer, a group of Czech workers began a demonstration against their communist regime. The unrest was eventually suppressed but not before it had triggered similar trouble throughout the Soviet bloc.

Three years later, trouble stirred again in Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Poland and Romania. And that summer of 1956 was followed by the final tragedy of Hungary, an act the Soviets are now repeating in Czechoslovakia.

An official Soviet statement on this latest action against Czechoslovakia is most enlightening. It states in part:

"The events in Czechoslovakia and around her were repeatedly the subject of exchanges of views between leaders of fraternal Socialist countries, including the leaders of Czechoslovakia. These countries are unanimous in that the support, consolidation and defense of the peoples' Socialist gains are a common internationalist duty of all the Socialist states. This common stand of theirs was solemnly proclaimed in the Bratislava statement."

The statement referred to its the agreement reportedly reached just days ago between Dubcek and Soviet representatives. It was thought that this agreement had produced grudging agreement by the Soviets to let the Czechoslovakia changes stand.

It is rather doubtful, to say the least, that Dubcek expected a Moscow interpretation of the Bratislava statement such as has now been rendered. That interpretation shows in another paragraph out of the latest official Soviet position:

"The Soviet government and the governments of the allied countries — the People's Republic of Bulgaria, the Hungarian People's Republic, the German Democratic Republic, the Polish People's Republic — proceeding from the principles of inseverable friendship and cooperation and in accordance with the existing contractual commitments, have decided to meet the above mentioned request for rendering necessary help to the fraternal Czechoslovak people."

The request from Czechoslovakia to which the Kremlin refers fails to mention the name of the person who made it. And the Czech people are undoubtedly scurrying to their dictionaries to find the latest definition for the world "fraternal."

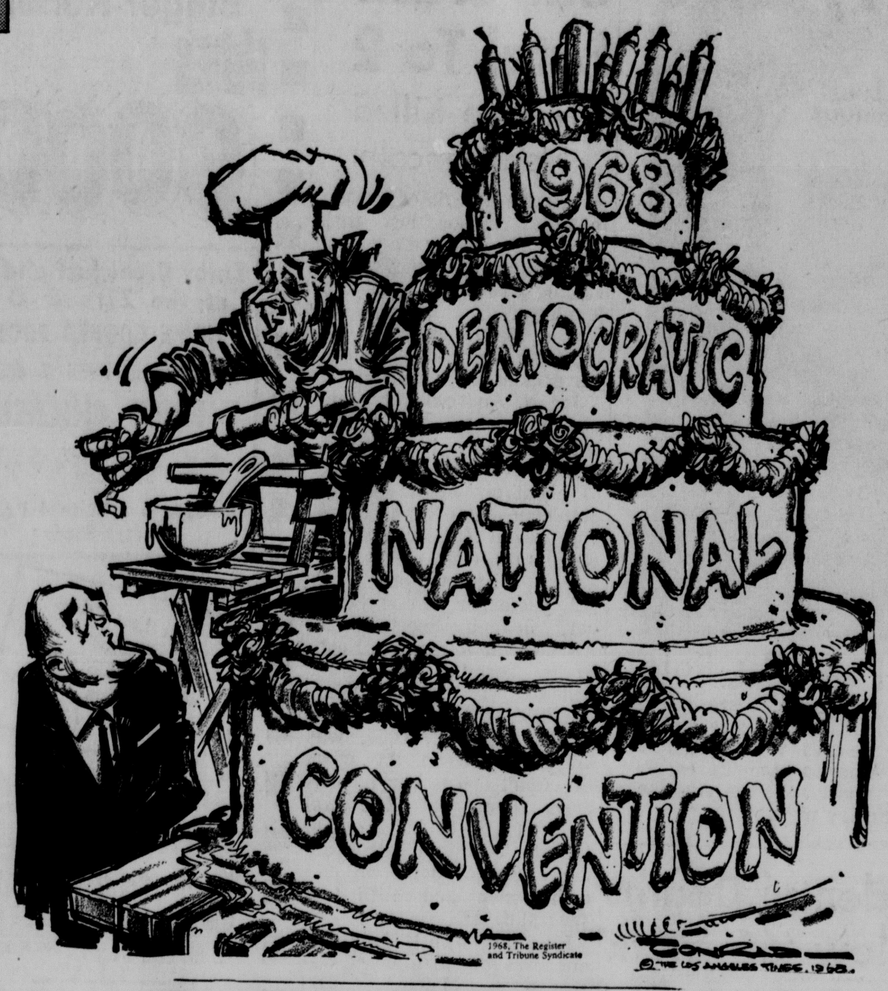
One other key paragraph in the Soviet statements says in part: "Nobody will be ever allowed to wrest a single link from the community of socialist states."

If that does not spell out the monolithic character of Russian communism, then we don't know what it does. Russia has openly pointed out to the world that there is no such thing as national autonomy under communism.

But the action further points out the problem this is and will continue to be for Russia. After all these years, communism still does not rate with people ahead of their nation.

And the call of freedom remains a strong one, despite the years of suppression under communism in the Eastern bloc of nations.

"After 'Happy Birthday To Lyndon' You Pop Out Of The Cake!"



Democrats And The South

There is a great deal of speculation today over whether the South dictated Richard Nixon's choice of Spiro Agnew as the GOP vice presidential choice. Nixon's campaign seems too carefully planned for the V.P. choice to be a spur-of-the-moment thing forced on him by Dixie. Still, the thought lingers: How much did Strom Thurmond have to do with it?

Consequently, Agnew is spending these early days of the campaign defending himself against charges of racism.

Soon the Democrats will be selecting their candidates.

And in advance of the convention, the South has already spoken. A coalition of Southern Democratic chairmen has published a list of seven Southerners they will push for the vice presidential nomination. They say they can unite behind any of them.

They are: Gov. John Connally of Texas, Gov. Buford Ellington of Tennessee, Gov. John McKeithen of Louisiana, Gov. Robert McNair of South Carolina, former Govs. Carl Sanders of Georgia and Terry Sanford of North Carolina, and Sen. George Smathers of Florida.

The question is: If the Democrats pick one of those seven will there be the same outcry that followed the selection of Agnew?

No one wants the South (or any other section of the country) to be able to dominate either of the major parties. No one wants racism charges to obscure the other issues.

Now we have a list of seven men acceptable to the South. If one of them is selected, fairness dictates "equal time." That is, as many disillusioned Negroes abandoning the party, as many anguished statements from liberals and as many cruel editorial cartoons. Fair's fair.

Federal Retreat A Challenge

The administration in Washington, D.C., is reported to be engaged in procedures aimed at reducing the federal payroll to the tune of 250,000 people. The action is in accordance with congressional economy directives.

This and any other cutbacks at the federal level will be generally applauded. A recent poll has shown a mounting concern among people for what is described as big government. And the Republican Party intends to make this issue a major one in the coming campaign.

But any reduction at the federal level is a two-way street. The corollary to such a reduction is an acceleration at the local level.

If the states and the cities fail to pick up the slack of federal reductions, then the citizenry will find a lag in public programs and services. That is the big question that surrounds any cutting of the impact of the federal government.

Such federal changes can have a great effect upon education, highways, social welfare, recreation, flood control and a host of other things in which the public has a substantial interest. People may approve of less of a federal role in things, but we doubt that they approve of cuts in the various programs that could be involved.

If the states and cities step into the vacuum that could be left at the federal level, the change could be an improvement. But if the whole change is no more than a means of cutting taxes, it should be remembered that such cuts mean fewer services.

A Fourth Party

Lincoln, Neb.

One serious objection to the formation of a fourth party in Nebraska or in any other state is that it would increase the probability of the November, 1968, election's going to the House. With the American Independent Party already making this a possibility, it is thought a fourth party could very well increase the possibility of a failure of any candidate receiving the requisite majority of electoral votes (270).

However, when the Republican strategy to meet this possibility (of an election in the House) becomes more visible to the electorate, the objection to a fourth party may appear less serious. For the GOP strategy is based on the belief that the Wallace campaign would ultimately favor the Republican Party if the election were to go to the House.

The "Wallace fallout" theory goes like this: Those who vote for Wallace will have to choose a Republican or a Democrat for the House this year, and it is believed that these voters would favor the Republicans more than the Democrats. Accordingly, the Republicans believe that if they can take one, two or three seats from the Democrats in 10 key "target" states (Illinois Kentucky, Maine, Montana, New Jersey, North Carolina, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania, Tennessee and Virginia), they can then have a majority in that state and therefore take the one-state one-vote majority in the House election.

If we take the Republican strategy seriously (Republicans are; they are spending one-half to three-quarters of a million dollars in these "target" states), then there is every reason to believe that the formation of a fourth party to the left would, by the reverse application of this theory, favor the Democrats. So, if the election does go to the House, there is no reason to believe the fourth party would help anyone but the Democrats who now hold the majority (29) of the 50 states' votes in the House and would continue to hold them with "fourth party fallout."

Pueblo Matter

Blair, Neb.

I am not one of these who think our government, including our State Department and the Navy, has forgotten the Pueblo or its men. I am sure these people want to get this ship and its men back home and this without loss of life, national prestige or, what is far worse, precipitation of another war front.

We should remember that absolute peace was not assured by the negotiations between the Koreans and the Eisenhower administration which stopped the actual fighting and bloodshed and waste of men and materials and wealth. At best, it was only a truce. The lines over there are still drawn. We still have some of our fighting men on duty over there. We cannot, as I see it, now or any other time in the future afford to reopen another war in Korea. Otherwise, why the hullaballo at this time to negotiate another such truce in Vietnam, as urged by so many millions of Americans?

I am well aware of the concern of the crew of the Pueblo in Korea and that of their loved ones on this side. Still I would seriously doubt that any of these most concerned would suggest shorting the countdown by precipitating another battle front in Korea, now or any other time.

There remains the possibility that the Pueblo may well have been off base when taken by the North Koreans and that this was at least a quasi-legitimate "take." True, under same circumstances, our nation would not have apprehended the ship and crew of another nation. If so, perhaps we should have admitted this fact from the beginning. There is still so much involved that the man on the street doesn't know and may never know. The important thing is that we do not let emotion dominate us in demanding action which could seriously impair the life and well being of millions of us and not just the 80-odd now involved.

Patchwork Prairie Country

The Farmer has been hauling milo to town with one truckload after another rumbling from the farm. One thing about milo, it is dirty and nasty down to the very end. The Farmer doesn't like to harvest this crop because there is something about milo dust that sends him into frenzied coughing. Now removing it from the bins likewise irritates him either with a burning itch or cough. Many of the farmers complain of the disagreeable effects from this grain.

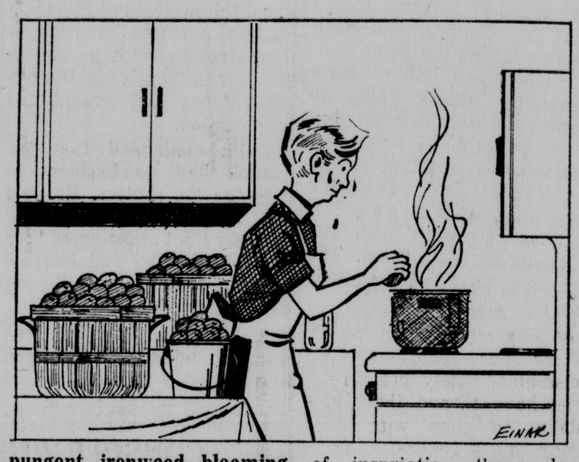
August is the month to enjoy the lushness of a fading summer, especially the tomatoes . . . the sun-ripe tomatoes along with many of the other garden vegetables. Now though we still think of the season as being in the midst of summer, there comes a faint breath of September.



There is the scent of drying corn tassels and the pungent ironweed blooming in the pastures. In the swampland the smart-weed nods and the cattail spikes stand tall above the water.

Now in August there are days too hot to work. My mornings are filled with the usual routine of country living. But during the most uncomfortable part of the day, I like to look at several new dress patterns and material I bought when I was in the city several weeks ago.

I am waiting for another rainy day to get started with sewing.

I like to thumb through the latest iris bulletin while I wait for my new plants to arrive. A cookbook is my favorite pastime. I choose a recipe to try the next time I am overtaken with the urge to stir a new batter.

Sometimes a new paint chart is my favorite pick-up material as I make mental notes toward redecorating a room that needs a new paint job. This, too, will be left until the weather becomes more agreeable.

Regardless of how stifling the day is, I always feel restored after breaking away from the routine of the day. I would like to say I have found books to be my source of inspriation these days when I take leave of my daily chores, but the truth of the matter is I have been so busy I have not found time to read. So many tasks are demanding on the farm in the summer and early fall. I do not wish to get involved in the problems of book characters when I have so many of my own.

Right now it is peaches . . . peaches of all varieties — big, small, over-ripe, under-ripe, pecked by the birds or fallen from the tree. Like the apple trees, the peaches were affected by the frost for they are smaller than usual and fall from the trees.

The Farmer picked a bushel of beauties from the treetops which had to be taken care of immediately as some were pecked by the birds. Many were not harmed so they went into the freezer. Others went into jam and were canned.

It is so discouraging to see perhaps one small peck mark on a peach. If the birds would peck on the same peach until it had been eaten, there would not be so many peaches blemished. This is one time when birds are not my friends, although a diet of worms and bugs must get very monotonous.

Loans Disputed To Dealers In Liquor

WASHINGTON — Whether Uncle Sam should put people in the liquor business with loans from the Small Business Administration has touched off a backstage debate.

In the past the Small Business Administration has followed a strict policy of no loans to gambling establishments, racetracks, newspapers, radio-TV stations, book publishers, banks, hospitals and concerns selling alcoholic beverages. The latter were included on the forbidden list because it was held that bars, beer gardens and liquor dealers did not contribute to the welfare of the community.

However, the new Small Business Administrator, Howard J. Samuels, has dropped the ban and has extended loans to liquor dealers. He claims that the no-loan policy was discriminatory against small businessmen, especially Negroes, who are trying to take over from white liquor dealers in the Negro ghettos.

Samuels, an able administrator and former under-secretary of commerce, has just received a hot letter from Rep. Joe Evins, D-Tenn., chairman of the House Small Business Committee, taking him to task.

What this means is that if liquor loans are not cut off, there will be speeches when Congress returns next month and probably a ban on Uncle Sam financing the liquor business.

A strange thing has happened to an important section of the 1966 Auto Safety Act aimed at making cars and highways safer. The provision for an auto safety research and test facility has disappeared.

Those who drive the highways and suffer from auto crashes costing over $12 billion a year don't know that this important part of the Auto Safety Act has been quietly ditched. Some place along the way, the Budget Bureau ruled it out, either because it cost too much or because Detroit doesn't want it — possibly both.

The motor moguls in Detroit have claimed this testing facility would put the government into the auto business. Some members of the Department of Transportation have been shaken by this argument. Also Congress has decreed a crackdown on spending. As a result, this part of the Auto Safety Act is being sidetracked.

Red Move On Czechoslovakia Unexpected; Sudden Action To Nixon's Political Benefit

NEW YORK — The Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia has transformed world and American politics.

It took place in the middle of the American presidential election of 1968, as the Soviet invasion of Hungary took place during the Eisenhower-Stevenson presidential election of 1956. The Soviets moved on Prague while the United States was preoccupied in Vietnam, as they moved on Budapest in 1956 while the British and French were preoccupied with the invasion of Suez, and the latest move by Moscow startled Washington just as officials there were convening on new moves to reach an understanding with the U.S.S.R. on Vietnam.

Washington was prepared for a dramatic move by the Soviet Union against the new liberal regime in Prague, but not for anything quite so bold as an invasion by the Red army.

In fact, the Johnson administration, under attack on its Vietnam policy just before the Democratic presidential nominating convention next week in Chicago, was discussing new moves to enlist the help of the Soviet Union for a compromise in Vietnam when the Red army moved.

The first impression of the crisis here was that this Soviet intervention in Czechoslovakia, like the first at the end of the last world war, would increase the East-West tensions and decrease the chances of a world arms control agreement between the U.S. and the Soviet Union.

At the same time, the Soviet attack was expected to hurt the peace candidates in the American presidential election, Sen. Eugene McCarthy of Minnesota and Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota, who had based their campaigns on the assumption that Moscow had begun to be "reasonable."

By the same token, the crisis in Eastern Europe was regarded here as a boon to the Republican presidenital nominee, Richard Nixon, who has maintained a strong anti-communist position throughout his career.

The general feeling here is that the Soviet Union, worried by the attractions of West Germany's and Western Europe's freedom and economic prosperity on Prague, and under attack by communist China for tolerating "revisionist" tendencies in Czechoslovakia and elsewhere in the communist world, decided to move against the liberal and defiant leaders of the new Czech government.

There is a tragic historical parallel in Tuesday's events in Eastern Europe. At the end of the last war, the U.S. was trying to reach an understanding with the Soviet Union for the reconstruction of the postwar world, when Moscow imposed its will on the democratic regime in Prague. Perhaps more than anything else, this started what came to be known as the cold war.

Similarly, as the Vietnam war seemed to be going into its closing phase, and the U.S. government, against substantial political opposition at home, was hoping for a post-Vietnam understanding with the Russians, Moscow has now introduced a wholly new problem.

Washington's hope has now clearly been arrested and postponed. Apparently, the Soviet regime instructed Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin to inform the U.S. government of the Soviet movement on Prague, which would indicate that Moscow wanted to forestall any counter-move by the United States. But the Soviet invasion will undoubtedly have major repercussions on public opinion in the U.S.

What is profoundly disturbing to officials in this country is that the struggle for control of Soviet policy seems for the moment to have been won by the hard-line advocates. The Soviet intervention in Hungary in 1956 was a spasm of Stalinist aggression — taken at a time when the hard Stalinist line was strong.

But this move on Prague was taken after a long period of de-Stalinization — not by a dictatorial leader but by the new post — Khrushchev "collective leadership." The struggle between those who wanted to encourage more freedom in Moscow and those who thought freedom was too dangerous — in Prague as well as among the restless youth of the Soviet Union — has now apparently been resolved.

The move in the U.S.S.R. toward de-Stalinization, in short, has been reversed for the time being in the Czech crisis — and it has been reversed against the advice of most of the international communist leaders except the Chinese.

In the face of this, the whole argument in the U.S. about strategy in Vietnam is bound to be affected. Those who regard that war as a critical area in the cold war, who want to use American power to achieve a military "victory" have undoubtedly been strengthened. Those who wanted to make concessions for peace in order to get on toward an accommodation with Moscow, arms control, and world reconstruction have undoubtedly been weakened.

Survey Reveals McCarthy More Popular Than His Proposals

By LOUIS HARRIS

A general frustration over the war in Vietnam may have provided the mood in which the candidacy of Sen. Eugene McCarthy has flourished this year. Yet the specific solutions the senator has put forth on Vietnam simply have not registered with a majority of the American people, including many who favor him for the presidency.

—While 50% of the public believes McCarthy favors a halt in all bombing of North Vietnam, the other 50% either thinks the opposite or just doesn't know.

—Although the senator has called for a coalition South Vietnamese government which would include the Viet Cong, only 26% of the public identifies such views with McCarthy.

At best, the Vietnam issue must be classified as a standoff for McCarthy.

On the one hand, his opposition to the war has won him popular respect. When a cross section of the public was asked whether it was "wrong for McCarthy to have opposed the war the way he has," the public disagrees by 44% to 30%.

Prefer Humphrey

But when asked directly who would do a "better job in handling the war in Vietnam," the American people prefer Vice President Hubert Humphrey to McCarthy by 47% to 29%. Among Democrats, Humphrey is preferred to McCarthy on the war issue by an even larger 55% to 24%. Only among Republicans is it close: Humphrey over McCarthy by only 37% to 35%.

In questioning to find out what lies behind this decisive vote of preference for Humphrey on handling Vietnam, the dominant reason given was the Vice President's "experience." Those selecting McCarthy said "he would really end the war" and "he isn't bound by previous policy."

The real key to popular support for the McCarthy candidacy, despite all the speculation to the contrary, does not rest on the substance of the Vietnamese war issue alone. Rather, the senator has caught fire with sizable majorities of the American people for his personal political courage and his new style of politics, whether or not they agree with his positions on Vietnam.

—By 75% to 12%, people feel that McCarthy was "courageous to run against Lyndon Johnson when no one else would."

—By 75% to 6%, the public believes that the senator has a "very sincere manner."

LOUIS HARRIS

Solutions Not Backed

—By 72% to 6%, the public feels that McCarthy is a "very independent-minded man."

—By 57% to 18%, people believe the senator has "captured the imagination of the younger generation in politics."

—By 52% to 29%, voters say they would have "real confidence" in McCarthy if he were in the White House.

New Candor

The facts clearly indicate that claims by both McCarthy supporters and opponents that the senator is a "single issue" candidate simply are incorrect. To the contrary, Eugene McCarthy has connected solidly in this country as a man who has been willing to take on the political establishment with a new kind of candor and frankness.

Without taking into account the results reported above, it may come as a surprise that Democrats who support McCarthy are actually opposed to a halt in bombing of North Vietnam by 55% to 29%. This is somewhat lower than the figure for the nation as a whole, which opposed a bombing halt by 61% to 24%, but it is still almost 2 to 1.

Here are some typical comments among voters who said they are for McCarthy but against a unilateral cessation of the bombing:

A salesman in Portland, Ore.: "I oppose a bombing halt because the Communists have proved in the past that they do not honor any type of moratorium." A white-collar worker in Linton, Ind.: "It would just give the Viet Cong a chance to build up more strength."

A skilled laborer in Mayfield Heights, Ohio: "They would be telling us what to do and doing what they want to do themselves, and that's not fair." A clerk in Moline, Ill.: "I think that's just what the Communists want us to do." A civil servant in Muskegon, Mich.: "While we're fighting, we ought to do a good job of it."

Doesn't Trust Communists

A McCarthy supporter in San Antonio put it this way: "I don't trust those Communists to keep their word. They'd sneak up and fire on us when we weren't looking." An office manager in Redlands, Calif.: "Those people don't understand. I'm afraid they'll stab us in the back if we quit bombing."

A white-collar worker in Temple City, Calif.: "They don't agree to stop — why should we?" A secretary in Philadelphia: "It wouldn't make much difference in the talks."

All of the above McCarthy supporters, as well as many others backing the Minnesota senator when interviewed in the Harris Survey, indicated skepticism about specific proposals advanced by antiwar groups.

Sen. McCarthy has expressed the frustration of many Americans over conditions at home and abroad, including Vietnam and the leadership gap. But it would be a mistake to conclude that his stated solutions to the Vietnamese war have convinced a majority of his own supporters, let alone the American people.

Life Begins At 40:

Old Lady Is Mean To Kids

By ROBERT PETERSON

Q. — "The meanest old lady we've ever known lives in the next block. She thinks she owns the street in front of her house and doesn't like people to park there. She's furious when children bicycle by on the sidewalk, and if they trespass even one inch on her lawn she screams at them or calls the police. In an effort to be conciliatory my wife and I stopped by last Sunday to make a friendly call, but she only opened the door a crack and said she didn't receive strangers. What do you do about old people like this?"

A. — You just ignore them. It's sad, but a fractional per cent of older people are just plain nasty and don't want to get along with their neighbors. All we can do is extend a friendly hand — and if it's rejected just stay out of their way. Most such people are miserable, lonely creatures who have turned their inability to cope with the world into a general hatred for everyone.

Q. — "My retired father, 76, lives in our spare bedroom. He's not much trouble but I didn't expect him to bother with pin-ups. Everytime I entertain guests he runs to his room and fetches photos of follies girls he claims he knew half a century ago. Should I remind him it was mother who spent four decades with him and not a show girl?"

A. — Wouldn't hurt to remind him. But he's probably well aware of it and simply has nothing better to do than enjoy fantasies of himself as a swashbuckling lothario. Too much leisure breeds various forms of strange behavior. You'd be doing your father and yourself a favor if you helped him find a job, a purposeful hobby, or a role in a club for retirees so he'll have something more constructive on his mind than the girls he left behind.

Q. — "Our church plans nothing for older people. There's an annual Children's Day, and there are young peoples' clubs and special classes for youngsters. There are also picnics and parties for the young folks. Don't you think churches should give a little thought to those of us at the other end of the age scale?"

A. — Sure they should, but it's a case of the squeaking wheel getting the grease. Parents show no hesitancy in demanding church activities to attract and hold interests of youth, and their demands are met. If older members spoke up and make a few demands of their own they'd find ministers and church officials hopping to do something about them.

County Fair Almost Fills 4-H Space At State Fairgrounds

By GLENN KREUSCHER
Farm Editor

A few of the old timers remember the story of how the Lancaster County Fairgrounds was incorporated into the land that became the Nebraska State Fair site, but fairgoers probably never planned on the day when the Lancaster County Fair almost fills the State Fair.

The big increase in numbers is coming in the horse show that now rivals all other livestock events for the show with the most entries.

For the first time this year the county fair will name five winners instead of the usual four in the Dress Revue to represent the county at the State Fair. The increase of one state fair entry comes with Lancaster County exceeding 400 4-H clothing projects.

Exhibits' Quality

The most noticeable part of the county fair comes in the quality of exhibits. Seldom is an entry noted that doesn't shape up well to breed standards and with good fitting and showing provided by the club member.

"Feed costs too much and it costs a lot to come to the fair, so if you don't have a good animal you had better stay home," explained one Lancaster 4-H Club member when asked about the high quality of exhibits.

The youngest animal at the fair Wednesday was a Holstein bull calf produced by Malcolm Club member Barbara Perry's Holstein cow named Naomi.

First Born

The calf called "Lancaster Special" by fair visitors became the first animal to be born in the new 4-H Club building that was used for it's first fair this year.

In the sheep show it was two young ladies with well known names in livestock circles that showed the champions.

Jane Munn of Waverly, exhibited the grand champion market lamb and the reserve winner was shown by Karen Retzlaff of Walton.

Strong Winners

One thing consistent about the Lancaster County sheep show was that the girls were strong winners in purple ribbon and championship events, an event that has been happening regularly at the fair.

In the swine show it was Stan Strauss of Rt. 7 Lincoln showing the grand champion with John Maahs of Rt. 7 Lincoln showing the reserve champion. The winners were Hampshires.

Fair awards included:

Retail Sales During June Go Up 11 Pct.

Nebraska's retail sales figures for June, 1968, reflected recovery from a slowdown in buying that took place a year ago after the state's new sales tax went into effect.

Retail sales this June in Nebraska were up 11.8% over the same month in 1967, while being only .2 per cent better than in the previous month of May. The trend was noted in Business in Nebraska, monthly publication of the University of Nebraska College of Business Administration's Bureau of Business Research.

General business activity in the state, as indicated by bank debits, building activity, retail sales, electricity and gas consumed, water pumped, postal receipts and newspaper advertising, also showed a healthy 14.3% increase over June of 1967.

The general business indicator was up in all 22 reporting cities, with Alliance recording a 37.9% jump. Others included: Fremont 27.0, Columbus 25.2, Kearney 24.6, Broken Bow 24.2, Falls City 18.6, Hastings 18.3, Scottsbluff 18.2, Fairbury 18.0, Lincoln 16.9, Norfolk 16.6, Grand Island 16.3, York 13.3, Omaha 12.2, Holdrege 10.1, Nebraska City 9.9, Chadron 9.3, Beatrice 9.1, South Sioux City 6.5, McCook 5.6, North Platte 3.3, and Sidney 1.3.

Hard Goods

The Business in Nebraska report indicated that hard goods sales, which had slumped sharply after the sales tax became reality, have normalized. These sales were up 20.9% over June of the previous year. Hard goods include many large items such as automobiles, furniture, and appliances.

Nebraska's May, 1968, dollar volume of business was 6.3% above May, 1967, and for the same period the physical volume increased 4.3% but both were below the national level of increase.

The complete report on retail sales adjusted for seasonal changes:

Nebraska School Buses Don't Have Safety Belts

. . . POSSIBLE PERILS CITED

School buses in Nebraska don't have seat belts because the belts wouldn't add any safety and might actually make the bus more dangerous to ride in, an Education Department official said Wednesday.

Jerry McCall, director of school transportation for the department, said a series of studies conducted in the United States the last two years indicate seat belts are not desirable in buses "with their present seat structure."

He said safety engineers have found that with the traditional low seat used in school buses, seat belts increase the danger of whiplash injuries in the event of an accident.

Would Hit Head

"It has been found that most children, if they were strapped in the seat, would hit their head on the iron bar running on the top of the seat in front of them if they were thrown forward," he said.

McCall said New York State began a pilot program of putting seat belts in buses two years ago but has since abandoned the project.

"In addition to the safety factors, there was a problem of discipline," he said. The director explained it is rather difficult to make sure a bus load of children keeps all the seat belts fastened securely.

McCall said that in present school buses, "if you can keep the child inside the structure of the school bus he's safe."

He said buses are constructed higher off the ground than cars or trucks and as a result, any accident involving another vehicle usually results in the other vehicle running under the bus. While this is often serious or fatal as far as the passengers of the other vehicle are concerned, it adds a large safety factor for bus riders.

Fatality Rate Low

McCall said there will be some 18 million students riding school buses in the United States this year. "Last year with about the same number of students riding buses, we had 50 fatalities," he said. "And of these, only 15 involved passengers in the bus. The other 35 involved accidents in the loading zone."

Four of the 15 deaths occurred at Waterloo, Neb., when a train hit a school bus. McCall said those four deaths were the first in 20 years of record keeping by the department.

He said there were 53 accidents involving buses in Nebraska in 1967 and that 32 of these involved no injuries at all. In addition, 13 more involved injuries only to persons not riding in the bus.

Drivers Praised

"We have 2,100 school transportation vehicles and 1,700 of them are buses," he said. "They travel 20 million miles a year. I think this indicates the drivers are doing a tremendous job."

McCall cited a bus-truck accident which occurred in Oregon last December as an indicator of the strength of bus bodies and the safety of bus passengers.

A bus operated by the Sweet Home, Ore., school district was hit head-on by a loaded logging truck weighing 23,000 pounds which was traveling between 40 and 60 miles per hour.

"There were no fatalities and no serious injuries," he said. "That says something about the structure of school buses."

New State Buildings, Grounds Head Named

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

Administrative Services Director Robert Rogers Wednesday named George H. Ludwig of Lincoln, a retired Air Force colonel, as superintendent of state buildings and grounds effective Sept. 3.

Ludwig succeeds H. Leslie Bowen, 62, who submitted his resignation Tuesday after eight months at the post.

Bowen declined to elaborate on the reasons for his resignation, but indicated it had been requested by Rogers, his immediate superior.

'Disagreement Mutual'

Rogers confirmed there was "mutual disagreement" between Bowen and himself over management and budget policies dealing with the department's buildings and grounds division.

Ludwig, a World War II pilot and Iowa State University graduate, has had 15 years experience in civil engineering with the Air Force, Rogers said.

"His engineering experience with air base and missile site development and maintenance will be valuable in connection with the plans for the new state office building," Rogers said.

At Job Corps

Ludwig, 51, retired from service in 1966, and had been maintenance management supervisor at the Lincoln Job Corps Center.

Rogers said Ludwig's salary in the state post will be $10,500 annually.

The new superintendent is married and has three children.

Rogers said there are no immediate plans for other personnel changes in the division.

National Banks Are Not Subject To Sales Tax

Atty. Gen. Clarence A. H. Meyer Wednesday agreed with State Tax Commissioner Murrell B. McNeil that Nebraska's national banks are not subject to the state's sales tax.

In an opinion, the attorney general said a recent U.S. Supreme Court ruling that prohibited Massachusetts from levying a sales tax on national banks also applies to Nebraska because the two states' laws are similar.

When the high court's ruling came down last June, McNeil had ruled then that Nebraska's national banks are entitled to exempt status.

However, the tax commissioner said, since that time there have been inquiries from certain persons who said they would only accept an attoreny general's ruling in the matter.

Some states, such as California, are not covered by the Supreme Court's ruling, McNeil said.

The reason for this, he said, is because California's sales tax applies to the vendor rather than the purchaser as is the case in Nebraska and Massachusetts.

Political 'Gifts' Not Deductible

Chicago (AP) — Taxpayers, in this election year, should take note that political contributions are not deductible either as business expenses or as contributions, Commerce Clearing House reports. Such contributions classify as gifts under the income tax law and are subject to the federal gift tax.

THE PENNEY STORY

Lay-away works this-away

By ROBERTA NASH

"I found the most darling coat at Penney's," a friend said recently. "But I won't need it for a couple of months, and I really hate to spend the money now."

So I told my friend about Penney's lay-away plan. "You just put a few dollars down and Penney's will hold your coat until you're ready to wear it. You can work out almost any schedule of payments. It's like an easy payment plan for cash customers. "I often pick up Christmas gifts on lay-away in October and November; why don't you try it?" I asked. She did.

Just a small deposit will hold any jacket on Penney's Lay-away Plan!

HURRY! HURRY! HURRY! PENNEY'S HAS THE GREATEST GROUP OF CHILDREN-WARMING JACKETS THAT EVER HIT THE SCHOOL SCENE!

Popular 'Snorkle' Mailbox On 10th Is To Be Removed

The much-used "snorkel" mailbox on 10th Street adjacent to the downtown Post Office will be removed Friday because of federal highway regulations, local postal officials said Wednesday.

The postal officials said nothing could be done — that the highway regulations prohibited such installations. Tenth Street is a federal highway.

The mailbox has made it possible for auto drivers to pull over to the side and deposit mail without leaving their cars, and it has been emptied of mail by the Post Office before each mail departure.

As a replacement service, the Post Office said new 'snorkels" have been installed in front of the Sam Lawrence Hotel, at 11th on the north side of P (an eastbound street) and between 10th and 11th on the northside of N (a westbound street). A third has been installed in front of the Burlington railroad station

However, no pickups will be made from the substitute snorkels after 7:30 p.m. because of their distance from the Post Office Building.

"We're not happy about the changes, because they remove a convenience for the public, but we can't do anything about it," a postal official said.

Additional locations are being sought for the snorkels, he said.

Chicago Eases Stand On Protests

massive security measures, the city of Chicago Wednesday slightly eased its stand against protest demonstrations during the Democratic National Convention.

An attorney for the city told a federal judge the city was willing to discuss "reasonable" alternatives to one group's demand for a permit to stage a mass anti-Vietnam march on the convention site

Even as the city gave its first indication it might relent in its opposition to all parades and other demonstrations, arrangements were being completed to feed, house and transport the federal, state and city security personnel. Some 20,000 of them are expected by the time the convention opens Monday night.

"The city of Chicago is quite interested in accommodating requests for reasonable assembly," Raymond Simon said during a hearing before Federal Judge William Lynch.

Lynch told Simon and Stanley A. Bass, who represented the National Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam, to sit down and discuss alternatives to the committee's request to stage a three-mile march involving as many as 150,000 persons to the convention hall next Wednesday night.

After an hour-long huddle, they agreed to meet again Thursday morning.

Spokesmen for the committee, one of several outspoken protest groups gathering in the city, indicated later they found the city's proposed alternate parade routes were "quite unsatisfactory."

City Bus Lines Wins Permission To Reduce Night, Sunday Service

The State Railway Commission Wednesday announced its decision to permit Lincoln City Lines to reduce night-time service and Sunday-holiday bus service.

M. B. McManaman, executive secretary, said the commission's order becomes effective Sept. 3.

City Lines will be allowed to halt or reduce service after 8:15 p.m. on week-nights except Thursday.

On Thursday nights, when the downtown stores are open, the company may close service after 9:15 p.m.

There will be bus transportation on Sundays and holidays only between 9 a.m. and noon.

Bus officials contended before the commission that route operations after 7:15 p.m. and on Sundays were uneconomical and had little patronage.

New Type Of Art Wins County Fair Honors

A new type or art that produced an "A-Plus" in a University of Nebraska textile and fashion merchandising class for Nancy Sahs, 1230 No. 37th, has been judged sweepstakes winner and best work of art at the Lancaster County Fair.

Nancy, 19, a sophomore at NU, identified her winner as a "nailhead relief on rust velveteen."

"We had so many things around the house that were the products of classwork that we decided to enter them. It is so much fun to take things to the fair," explained Nancy's mother, Mrs. Warren Sahs.

During the summer Nancy works at the Children's Zoo.

The best craft creation was a wheel-thrown pot by John Bush, 4416 Touzalin, and the best in the junior department was "Sons of Slums," an oil painting by William French, 5600 Sunrise Rd.

Gillespie Can't Be On Ballot

An Oklahoma City, Okla., man who aspires to be President of the United States, Wednesday was turned down in his bid to be placed on Nebraska's general election ballot.

Jack Kennedy Gillespie, 50, a schedule analyst with Western Electric Co. in Oklahoma City, had written Secretary of State Frank Marsh requesting that he be placed on the ballot.

In a letter to Gillespie, Marsh explained that Nebraska law prohibits placing any candidate on the ballot unless the person is a nominee of "a recognized party in this state."

Marsh told Gillespie his only option would be to form a new party in Nebraska and win its nomination for president.

"As a practical matter, it would hardly be possible to organize a political party and comply with all the requirements prior to the November election," Marsh added. The deadline for forming a new party is Aug. 27.

Gillespie, who has been an unsuccessful candidate for governor, lieutenant governor, state senator, mayor and Oklahoma County sheriff, said he favors an all-out effort to win the war in Vietnam, including the use of nuclear weapons.

He said he opposes racial integration because, he contended, the great majority of Americans oppose it.

He also said he opposes gun control legislation and favors greater states' rights and more use of private enterprise in solving America's urban problems.

"Now that we're home, I've got a million things to do," she said in a distracted way.

The wheels came down — thump. The engines roared into reversing action.

"The local time," said the stewardess, "is approximately 3:35 p.m."

Time with a stewardess is always "approximate." The pilot will give you advance notice on arrival to the minute. Hours in advance. The chick in the cabin, being female, gives only "maybe" time.

"I forgot my cosmetic bag," said the house wren when we got on the ground. "It's under the seat."

I climbed back up and got it. She said: "I've got a million things on my mind."

☆ ☆ ☆

At home, we waded through the piled-up mail. Aired out the house. On the table was a note from a friend. She drops in to see that nobody has lifted the radio.

"There's a leak in the downstairs bathroom. Also one in the upstairs bathroom. I put a bathtowel under each one."

This is the marvelous thing about buying a scatter. No sooner is the down payment in the agent's foxy pocket, the place begins to drip like a sponge.

Even when you go away and leave it alone, it springs leaks.

"A scatter like this I'd like to have in the desert," I said. I gave the screws a couple of turns with a wrench. It slowed it down — but only a little. And the plumber's bride shall wear mink this winter.

☆ ☆ ☆

"If you'll take the suitcases in the bedroom," she said, "I'll get things straightened up. I've got a million things to do."

She was sitting down with a glass of ice water. Reading the mail.

I carried the suitcases back to the bedroom. All six of them, stuffed with lead.

"What do you think?" she said. "My cousin got married."

I asked her, "You wouldn't like to carry your own flight bags, would you?"

She said: "Just throw them anywhere in the bedroom, and I'll be right in. I've got simply hundreds of things to do."

☆ ☆ ☆

She said: "Would you get me some more ice water, please? I'm all dehydrated from flying. And my lap's full of mail."

She said: "While you're carrying the bags back, you might put the screen back in. It fell out when I opened the window."

I said: "They usually do if you give them a good hard shove."

I went downstairs and got the screen out of the yard. I put it in.

I said: "Where's the gin?"

She said: "Aren't you having a drink rather early?"

☆ ☆ ☆

She slit open some more mail and said: "If you'll unzip the bag and hang it, I can get my things out. I'm already worn out with all the things I've got to do."

I said: "Hang that big blooming thing? It takes two bellhops just to lift it."

She said: "Here's an invitation to cocktails. But, oh, it's too late." She said: "You've hung it before. And I can't possibly get my things out of it flat.

"Could you get me some more ice water?" she said. "I'm dehydrated and there's so much to do."

☆ ☆ ☆

I got the bag on the hook. (The Olympic weight lift people should take a look at me.)

I said: "Is there anything more we can do for Your Grace?"

She said: "Don't be irritable the first day home. Now why are the rug people threatening to sue us? I know I paid that bill."

"Where did you say you put the gin?" I asked.

"Some vermouth would help, too," I said. "I guess I forgot to get any," she said. "I had so many things on my mind." "Never mind," I said, "I'll drink it straight."

"You know," she said, "why don't we just go out to dinner? I'm all worn out what with coming home and doing a million things."

Asians Waiting, Watching

Manila (UPI) — Red China may join the human heart transplant club of nations soon, but aside from Japan and India most Asian nations are watching and waiting before taking the step.

Asia's first heart transplant operation was performed in Bombay on Feb. 18, 1968. The patient, Bodan Chittan, 27, died the same day. The second heart transplant took place on Aug. 8 at Sapporo, Japan. The patient, Nobuo Miyazaki, 18, has made good progress.

A United Press International survey showed that in addition to Red China, India and Japan such operations could be performed in three other places within the next few years.

They are Hong Kong, Singapore and the Philippines. None of the three, however, plan any such transplant operations at the moment.

There are no laws against such operations in the nations surveyed by United Press International, but only Hong Kong has passed a bill specifically providing for such action.

Chinese doctors who trained and practiced in Communist China before coming to Hong Kong told UPI's China watchers the Chinese Communists probably have the capability for carrying out heart transplants.

The doctors expect China will perform a human heart transplant before too long.

The Chinese have done some experimental work in transplants of hearts and other organs in dogs. Shanghai's Chun-Ta Hospital has been performing heart valve operations since 1957.

Hospitals in Canton, Shanghai and Peking are known to have the facilities. Open heart surgery has been done for more than 10 years — more than 700 up to 1960 according to a Peking radio broadcast. Much work in heart surgery has been done at Peking's Fou Wai hospital.

In Hong Kong, the crown colony has no immediate or future plans for such an undertaking, but it does have all the medical facilities and qualified and competent surgeons.

Funds OKd For Adding Four Sirens

Omaha (AP) — The Omaha City Council has authorized $13,257 for purchase of four additional civil defense sirens.

Council action followed a report from William Noyes, civil defense co-ordinator, that 40% of the city's population could not hear a siren at present. Four more sirens, he said, will boost coverage to 75%.

Omaha's sirens were sounded Sunday night moments before two tornadoes touched down in the western part of the city. Some residents of the damaged area said later they could not hear the sirens.

Meanwhile Mayor A. V. Sorensen promised the city "will do its level best" to place civil defense sirens within hearing distance of every resident.

He said he would "review the situation" but would make no "snap judgments" on whether additional sirens are needed.

Teen-Age GOP Members Select Millard Youth

Halsey — Robert Russell of Millard was selected state chairman of the Nebraska Federation of Teen-age Republicans during the group's 6th annual TAR convention-camp here.

Other officers include John Hennings of Lincoln, co-chairman; Debi Cross of Bloomfield, secretary; and Mary Lou Haberman of Hastings, treasurer.

The 65 campers heard speeches from Gov. Norbert Tiemann; Mrs. Lorraine Orr of North Platte state GOP chairman; Joe Edwards, GOP executive secretary; Bill Behn, security officer; Petris Taurins, Young GOP state chairman; Art Knox; and Lowell Hummell of Fairbury.

Organizing this year's convention-camp were Tom Spitznogle of Lincoln, retiring TAR chairman, and Mrs. Joan Schroder of Alma, state Young GOP co-chairman. Staff members included Mrs. Schroder, Mrs. Beth McLaughlin of Hebron, Mike Nelson and Mrs. Letty VanKaleeck, both of Omaha, and Pam Glaser and Taurins of Lincoln.

Negro-Owned Firm Wins $73,656 Chimera Contract

Omaha (AP) — Component Concepts Corporation, a Negro-owned and operated manufacturer of electronic components, has won a $73,656 contract with Chimera Corporation of Kearney.

Up to now the three-month-old firm has been making switchboard parts for the Western Electric Company.

The firm was started by Joe W. Saunders, 33, who has serviced electronic equipment and computers, and Emmett J. Dennis Jr., executive director of the Nebraska Equal Employment Opportunity Commission.

The company has eight employes and will soon double its work force, Saunders said. "We hope to help provide jobs," he said.

The company was started with the help of a $25,000 loan from the United States National Bank guaranteed by the Small Business Administration.

Bids Due Oct. 1 On Meat Animal Research Center

Washington (AP) — Bids will be accepted Oct. 1 for construction of a federally operated meat animal research center at Clay Center, Neb., the General Services Administration announced Tuesday.

The proposed 13-building complex is estimated to cost about $2,842,000. It will include a laboratory and buildings for research into the feeding, breeding and genetics of beef, swine and sheep. It is to be operated by the Agriculture Department.

The proposed site is the old Hastings Naval Ammunition Depot.

Bids were first requested for the 200,000 — squre foot, two-story brick structure in May but postponed at request of potential bidders, GSA said.

County Rejects Budget Request

. . . PLANS TO 'SHOP AROUND' FOR VOTING MACHINES

By JOAN McCULLOUGH
Star Staff Writer

Lancaster County commissioners have elected to "shop around" before purchasing voting machines.

The board turned down the request of Election Commissioner Dean Petersen for funds for 900 vote recorders costing 232,936, according to a statement issued by the county board Wednesday.

Petersen entered a tentative agreement with the IBM company on June 26, 1968, to buy the vote recorders over a five-year period. The first payment of $50,547 was included in the 1968-69 budget request of the election commission.

Not Aware Of Others

Commissioners said they were not aware that other punch card vote recorders were on the market until they learned of systems used by some counties in other states.

A savings of $83,000 or more is a possibility if similar machines are purchased from another company, the commissioners said.

The machines are available at $152 per machine, with the possibilities of discounts, which could result in a savings of over $90,000, the statement said.

Differing interpretations of Nebraska statutes delegating the authority to purchase vote recorders have come out of this issue.

The governor appoints the election commissioner, who submits his budget requests to the county commissioners.

One statute states: "The election commissioner shall purchase and provide all necessary . . . equipment for the registration of voters and the conduct of elections." The statute lists ballot boxes, but does not mention voting machines or electronic counting devices, the board contends.

Another statute reads: "The governing body of any county may by purchase, lease, or rental, acquire a sufficient number of voting machines on electronic counting devices."

"Apparently this is the reason for the county attorney's view that they can be only purchased by the county board," the statement said.

"Vote recorders are probably the best and maybe the cheapest method of conducting an election, but it is necessary to consider other machines and to institute legislation for the use of the equipment," William Grossman, chairman of the board, said.

Other states have statutes dealing specifically with punch-card voting, Grossman said. This would alleviate inconsistency and state whether a bent ballot would be counted or considered invalid, he said.

The board expressed dissatisfaction concerning the machines used in the May primary, due to problems that arose and slow reporting of the results.

Although they had been advised that reports would be available an hour after the polls closed, the results did not reach them until after some of the areas using the old system had reported, the commissioners said.

Petersen's office reported after the primary that the computer tabulation of the votes had gone smoothly for the most part.

In accordance with the decision, the board deleted the item from the $186,427 budget request and budgeted an amount in accordance with past records, the statement said.

The commissioners expect to present the budget some time this week.

2,100 Nebraska Demos Pledge To Support Gene

Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy's headquarters here Wednesday reported it has gathered petitions bearing approximately 2,100 signatures from Nebraska Democrats indicating support for him as the Democratic presidential nominee.

The petitions will be turned over to the Nebraska delegation at the national convention in Chicago by McCarthy's area coordinator, William Braun of Wisconsin.

A spokesman at the headquarters said about 700 of the signatures were gathered in Lincoln with the others coming from Omaha and the rest of Nebraska.

The signature gathering effort began shortly after McCarthy's Nebraska headquarters was reopened here a month ago.

Mason City Coed Awarded Three NU Scholarships

Marilyn K. Phifer has been awarded three scholarships at the University of Nebraska College of Agriculture and Home Economics. She has received the Ceres Club Scholarship for $100, the Phyllis Jane Fauquet Scholarship for $53, and the NU Rodeo Association Scholarship for $100.

Miss Phifer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Phifer, Mason City, is a senior majoring in home economics education.

State's Demo Delegation To Get Directions

State Democratic Chairman John Mitchell of Omaha is mailing this week to Nebraska delegates to the party's national convention two resolutions passed by a mail vote of the state central committee.

One urges the delegation to "vote against the seating of delegates who, in its opinion, have been selected by means which are contrary to democratic principles."

The other directs National Committeewoman Maurine Biegert of Schickely and Marvin Werve of Omaha to work toward abolishing the unit rule at any level of Democratic Party business.

Nebraska has a law forbidding the unit rule which binds delegates to the choice of a simple majority of a delegation.

Nixon Talks To Rockefeller; Plans Meeting With Lindsay

New York (AP) — Richard M. Nixon — building bridges to all wings of the party — won New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's promise Wednesday of full campaign help for his Republican presidential campaign.

And, the GOP standard-bearer scheduled a meeting with Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York, another spokesman of the party's more liberal segment.

Rockefeller, strongest of Nixon's unsuccessful rivals for the nomination, said he would speak for the candidate in other states and take charge of the GOP campaign in New York State.

Unity Toward Victory

Nixon joined the governor in a statement declaring they are "united in the conviction that the progressive spirit of the Republican platform clearly points the path" toward a GOP victory in November.

Rockefeller's pledge was a high point of a day dedicated to promoting Republican unity for Nixon's White House race.

Other Republican leaders calling on Nixon in his Fifth Avenue apartment were Sens. Jacob K. Javits of New York and Edward W. Brooke of Massachusetts.

"I support the ticket and I make no qualification about that, either qualitatively or quantitatively," Javits told newsmen.

Negro Senator Confers

Brooke, the first Negro U.S. senator since Reconstruction, said he had discussed racial, economic and urban affairs with Nixon. "If he campaigns the way he talks to me he's going to win a lot of votes in this country," Brooke said.

The senator said he would speak outside Massachusetts for Nixon. And he expressed confidence in Nixon's choice of a running mate, Gov. Spiro T. Agnew of Maryland.

Some Negro groups have criticized Agnew's tough law and order statements during Maryland's racial violence but Brooke said "Ted Agnew is not a racist. He's a progressive."

Two State Bus Lines Seeking To Drop Runs

Continental Trailways and Greyhound Bus Lines have asked the State Railway Commission for authority to discontinue several bus runs and make schedule changes in others.

Continental proposes canceling a Lincoln to Grand Island round-trip run, which leaves Lincoln at 12:15 p.m. and Grand Island at 5:30 p.m.

The company said three other Lincoln-Grand Island bus runs are adequate to serve travelers.

Continental wants to drop a Lincoln-Omaha round-trip route, which leaves Lincoln at 1:20 p.m. and Omaha at 9:35 p.m.

This route was added June 1 for heavy summer travel, and was originally planned for discontinuance Sept. 1. Six other Lincoln-Omaha round trips will remain unchanged.

Greyhound is also requesting discontinuance of several runs as a seasonal adjustment. Only two affect Lincoln. Replacement routes, proposed effective Sept. 4, will observe a different time schedule.

Censors Challenged

Paris (AP) — French movie makers are demanding a liberalization of film censorship. Films now are checked by a 24-member committee, most of whom are appointed by the government.

Siamese Twins Die At Albion

Albion (AP) — The birth of Siamese twin girls at Boone County Hospital Aug. 15, has been reported. The twin girls, joined from chest to abdomen, died a few hours after birth.

Dr. Gerald J. Ppethman, the attending physician, said State Department of Health records in Lincoln showed this to be the second such case in Nebraska since 1965.

The twin girls were daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester Schrage of Petersburg, who have eight other children.

FOR HER FALLEN SON

Mrs. James Anderson holds the Medal of Honor citation awarded posthumously to her son, Marine Pfc. James Anderson Jr. Standing beside her at the Marine Barracks in Washington is her husband who is holding his son's medal. Secretary of the Navy Paul Ignatius, left, and Marine Commandant Gen. Leonard Chapman stand next to the parents who traveled from Compton, Calif. Young Anderson was killed in Vietnam while shielding his comrades from a hand grenade.

Lancaster Marijuana Hearing Rescheduled

Preliminary hearings for three youths charged with possession of marijuana planned for Aug. 20 have been rescheduled for Sept. 3, in Lancaster County Court.

The case involves Joseph Divis Jr., son of former Blaine County Atty. Joseph J. Divis, who resigned to participate in his son's defense.

Divis said he will attack the statute under which his son and two other youths were charged in Lancaster County.

Divis could not defend his son while he was county attorney. He had served in that capacity for 18 years.

Robert D. Brown, 18, North Platte, Gary Sather, 20, Loup City, and Divis, 22, of Brewster, were arrested last month by University of Nebraska police and charged with possession of cannabis.

The three allegedly had about an ounce of marijuana in a Turkish water pipe.

Nixon Calls For Red Withdrawal

New York (AP) — Richard M. Nixon, Republican candidate for president. Wednesday called the invasion of Czechoslovakia "an outrage against the conscience of the world."

Nixon, in a statement, said: "The voices of all who value freedom ought now to demand the removal" of the troops of the Soviet Union, East Germany, Poland, Bulgaria and Hungary.

"And those who wish for long-term peace must also hope that the Soviets reconsider this brutal act — not only in sympathy with the Czech and Slovak people, but also because it jeopardizes those broader negotiations if peace is to be secured for the balance of this century."

'Poor Dad' Thought As Funny As Title Is Long

By WAYNE KREUSCHER
Star Staff Writer

The new show at the Gaslight Meller Drammers, 322 So. 9th, is as funny, risque and entertaining as the play's title is long:

"Oh Dad, Poor Dad Mama's Hung You in the Closet and I'm Feeling So Bad."

The play, which opened Wednesday and will continue until Sept. 7, is a "new experiment" for this melodrama theater.

The audience was told to refrain from the usual throwing of popcorn, booing and hissing because "Oh Dad, Poor Dad . . ." is a "straight Broadway play."

Works Well

And the "experiment" worked very well with "Mama" (Beverly Miller) at her brassy best, with her son Jonathan, alias Albert, (Paul Baker) as "white as fresh snow" and with "Dad" like any stuffed corpse that is kept hanging in the closet.

"Mama" is a large, brazen woman, who makes Shakespeare's "Shrew" seem mild in comparison.

Apparently she travels the world, "measuring yachts," protecting her son from "trees, sluts and sunstrokes" and chasing lovers off the beaches at night.

Kept In Closet

That is, when she's not busy taking care of her "fat, ugly, hideous" deceased husband, whom she keeps hanging in the closet wherever she is.

"Mama," whose real name in the play is Madam Rosepettle, is also somewhat of a philosopher.

She keeps her white-faced, stuttering son inside at all times to teach him the "lessons of life" and protect him from "life and all its ugliness."

Protection Imperfect

But she can't protect her son from seductive Rosalie (Carolee Heileman), who wants Jonathan to run away with her and be her husband.

A fourth main character is Commodore Roseabove (Joe Miller), who owns one of those yachts that "Mama" enjoys "measuring."

The play ends abruptly with "poor Dad" on the floor, Rosalie dead in "Mama's" bed and Jonathan looking through his telescope but probably as usual not seeing anything, except maybe "Mama."

The audience is probably supposed to learn some type of "lesson" from this play, directed by John R. Wilson, but Wednesday night it seemed that everyone was too busy laughing.

Berkeley C Of C Post To Brown, Former Omahan

Berkeley, Calif. — Don J. Brown, formerly of Omaha, has been appointed executive vice president of the Berkeley Chamber of Commerce.

Joining the Berkeley Chamber staff as assistant manager in 1966, Brown previously served as manager of the membership service department and of the national legislative affairs department of the Omaha Chamber of Commerce.

He is a past president of the Nebraska Jaycees, serving that post in 1962-63.

Shoe Company To Employ 40 In Rushville Operations

The Thomas R. Allen Shoe Corp. will open a new manufacturing facility in Rushville. Production of ladies' and misses' hand-sewn casual shoes will begin immediately, according to Thomas Allen, company president.

Forty persons will be employed initially at the plant with future plans for 200 to 300 employees in three years, Allen said. Operations will begin in an existing building, with plans to build a new building containing 15,000 square feet with an occupancy date of Nov. 15.

Erwin Bows has been named vice president in charge of manufacturing for the company and will be in charge of setting up the Nebraska operations.

The Rushville Rurbia Industry and Improvement Corp. and the Nebraska Economic Development Department worked with the Allen company in locating the new plant.

Liquor Permit Is Requested By East Hills

East Hills Development Corp. has filled an application with the State Liquor Control Commission for a Class C liquor license for East Hills Supper Club, 70th and Sumner.

The club has been owned and operated for several years by Boyd Waddle.

A hearing before the City Council on the new license application has been set for Monday, Sept. 9.

Officers and directors of the corporation include Charles B. Palmer, 1814 Morningside Dr., president; John C. Clyne, 1625 So. 77th, vice president, and Claude L. Cone Jr., 3905 Everett, who will serve as a director and manager of the club.

Other directors include Walter W. Fetty, Gary H. Pickering, Robert D. Hays and Edward F. Carter Jr., all of Lincoln.

According to the application, food service and the club facilities, including a swimming pool, will continue in operation.

The city was also notified that Guy C. Dean Jr. has applied for an increase in the area of the licensed premises of the Yacht Club, 720 Lakeshore Dr.

The club presently occupies an 800-square-foot space at Dean's Lakeshore Marina and Dean proposes to double its size.

Construction of the addition will begin immediately upon approval of the request, Dean said

Credentials Battle A Political Contest

By NEIL GILBRIDE

Chicago (AP) — Sen. Eugene McCarthy's forces sought to wrest presidential nominating votes from Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey Wednesday in a heated Democratic credentials fight that first saw Mississippi delegates drummed out of the party's national convention on grounds of racism.

Political tempers rose to match the sweltering weather as the party's biggest convention seating struggle in history moved from the purely racial issue in Mississippi to a complex dispute mixed of race, party loyalty, unit and political maneuvering in other state delegations.

A charge of "political expediency" was leveled against the national party by Jack Travis, chairman of the regular Mississippi delegation ousted in favor of a biracial ousted in favor of a biraciol group of insurgent "loyal Democrats."

Must Be Confirmed

The credentials committee ruling on Mississippi is subject to confirmation by the national convention opening next week.

In another dispute Texas state chairman Will Davis said "I think we have been maliciously malgined" by similar charges of racism from a pro-McCarthy slate of challengers.

Albert Pena, speaking for the Texas McCarthy group, charged that Negroes, Mexican-Americans and others were denied a fair share of national convention votes and that some were "stolen" by Gov. John Connally.

Davis angrily insisted all Texas group were fairly represented at the national convention, including Negroes, Mexican-Americans, organized labor, "red-heads and liberals."

Seek 125 Votes

McCarthy forces seek to unseat the entire regular delegations from Georgia and Alabama and gain at least 50 seats in Texas and thus pick up a total of 125 more nominating votes for the Minnesota senator.

The McCarthy forces joined with an informal "black caucus" of Negro delegates from Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia, Texas and North Carolina to press racial discrimination charges and seek the seating of pro-McCarthy delegates.

Joseph Rauh Jr., a top McCarthy strategist, threatened a bruising floor fight at the convention if the Humphrey-dominated credentials committee rules against the challengers in other Southern states.

"We cannot hope to win before the credentials committee," Rauh said.

He charged it was Humphrey's strategy to seat the 44 Mississippi challengers but then to overlook allegations of racial discrimination in other Southern states and rule in favor of party regulars.

Both Humphrey and McCarthy supported the victorious Mississippi insurgents. There was no Humphrey-McCarthy struggle at stake in that state because the challengers are evenly divided.

Rep. James G. O'Hara of Michigan, a Humphrey strategist, said the vice president was gratified by the Mississippi ruling but is keeping a hands-off attitude toward all other credentials fights so as not to interfere with "due process and fair play."

Liquor License Ruling Restrained In District Court

Judge Bartlett Boyles issued an order Wednesday restraining the Liquor Control Commission from suspending the Class C liquor license of Myron R. Roberts, Inc., pending action in Lancaster District Court.

Roberts filed a petition asking the court to invalidate a July 31, 1968, order of the commission suspending the firm's license for five days.

The commission ruled that Roberts purchased liquor from three merchants with credit exceeding a 30-day period. It judged the action a violation of the Nebraska Liquor Control Act and suspended the firm's license from Aug. 25, 1968, to Aug. 31, 1968.

Roberts said the action exceeded the jurisdiction of the commission and that the allegations were not supported by substantial evidence.

Sen. Kennedy Calls For Bombing Halt

Worcester, Mass. (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., breaking a 10-week silence, called Wednesday for an unconditional halt to the bombing of North Vietnam as part of a four-point program to end the Vietnam War.

He described the war as "the tragedy of our generation", and called for withdrawal of American troops and negotiation with Hanoi without regard for the desires of the South Vietnam government.

In his first political speech since the assassination of his brother, Robert, in June, Kennedy thanked those who have suggested he should retire "for safety's sake."

No Safety In Hiding

"But there is no safety in hiding," he said. "So today I assume my public responsibilities to the people of Massachusetts."

He did not say whether he would attend the Democratic National Convention in Chicago next week, but an aide said Kennedy had not yet decided.

Kennedy said American hopes to help the South Vietnamese help themselves have been buried "by the overwhelming incompetence and corruption of our South Vietnam ally."

Addressing a luncheon sponsored by the Worcester Area Chamber of Commerce at Holy Cross College, Kennedy told the audience of about 1,200 that the United States should institute a four-point program for an end to the Vietnam War.

1. "To end unconditionally all bombing of North Vietnam;

2. "To then negotiate with Hanoi mutual withdrawal from South Vietnam of all foreign forces, both Allied and North Vietnam;

3. "To accompany this withdrawal with whatever help we can give to the South Vietnamese in the building of a viable political, economic and legal structure that will not promptly collapse upon our departure;

And, 4. "To demonstrate to both Hanoi and Saigon the sincerity of our intentions by significantly decreasing this year the level of our military activity and military personnel in the South."

Kennedy said that for the past 10 weeks he had concerned himself with his family, spending "much of my time with the sea, clearing my mind and spirit, putting the past behind."

He added: "Like my three brothers before me I pick up a fallen standard. Sustained by the memory of our priceless years together, I shall try to carry forward that special commitment to justice, to excellence and to courage that distinguished their lives."

He said he did not speak for partisan interests.

"I come as one who will not run for office this year," Kennedy said.

He said he would not suggest a cessation of the bombing of North Vietnam if it would cost American lives.

But he said that while the bombing of North Vietnam has slowed movement of men and material to the South, the secretary of defense confirmed last week that the bombing had not curtailed the movement.

"An end to the killing in Vietnam can never be negotiated as long as the bombing of North Vietnam continues," he said.

Kennedy said a withdrawal would create difficulties for the regime in South Vietnam, "but it has yet to demonstrate either popular support or a desire to commit that nation fully to the struggle.

"The government in Saigon must not be given a veto over our course in Paris, our cessation of the bombing, or our mutual withdrawal of troops.

"If we follow the steps I have outlined today, I believe we can put this war behind us and reach out again for the country we know we can be."

Kennedy departed from the prepared text of his 20-minute address to mention briefly the entry of Soviet troops into Czechoslovakia.

"The entry of Russian troops into Czechoslovakia is a retrogression into an age we had all hoped was past," he said.

"These events are an affront to decency and especially to a brave people who have demonstrated that they seek to be independent of the Soviet Union," he added.

Sugar Ester License Agreement With Japanese Firm Outlined

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

State officials Thursday disclosed major terms of a license agreement with a Japanese firm for use of Nebraska's patented sugar ester process.

The initial license fee and royalty schedule negotiated were withheld from public announcement because of "pending negotiations with other interested firms in the U.S. and foreign countries."

The agreement with Dai-Ichi Kogyo Seiyaku Co. of Kyoto (DKS) was signed last week in Japan by a negotiating team headed by Gov. Norbert T. Tiemann.

Will Benefit

State Economic Development Director James Monroe said he hoped Nebraskans would take the word of himself and other team members that "if the (DKS) pilot plant proves successful, the state will benefit monetarily."

Dr. George Schrader, industrial research director, termed the license agreement "better than average for a commercially-untried chemical process."

The Nebraska-Snell process produces sugar esters from the basic raw materials of sugar and tallow. The product is bio-degradable, non-toxic compound, referred to as surfactant, and is the active ingredient in detergents and an emulsifier in food products.

The agreement's announced terms:

—DKS was granted an exclusive license for only Japan and its territories, and cannot sell the product into the United States.

—DKS will conduct developmental research through March 31, when the company will commence construction of a pilot plant in Kyoto, representing an investment of at least $100,000.

—If the pilot plant is successful, construction of a commercial production facility with initial design capacity of three million pounds annually will commence by March, 1971.

—Production must be one million pounds annually by March, 1973, or Nebraska has the right to convert the agreement to a non-exclusive one.

—The agreement provides for audit rights and transfer of technical know-how to Nebraska.

—All products manufactured must note the license with Nebraska.

Research Cost

Monroe estimated $150,000 in Agresearch funds have gone into the laboratory development of the process by Foster D. Snell Inc., a New York independent research laboratory.

He said the prime target of the process is increased utilization of Nebraska produced sugar and tallow.

Unfortunately, he noted, U.S. antitrust regulations prohibited tying explicit utilization of Nebraska tallow to the licensing agreement.

Japan is a leading importer of U.S. tallow, he said, in expressing hope the Nebraska process will aid in reversing the slumping market price for tallow during the past three years.

Monroe noted the Nebraska-DKS license agreement has greatly stimulated the interest of other domestic and foreign manufacturers.

Candidates View Vote In House

By United Press International

Nebraska's three Democratic congressional candidates had differing views Wednesday on how they would vote if they are elected to Congress and the presidential election is thrown into the House of Representatives.

The three Republican incumbents, all of whom are running for re-election, have said they will vote for Republican presidential candidate Richard Nixon if the election is thrown into the House.

Mrs. Maxine Morrison of Omaha, the Democratic candidate in the Second District, said her actions would depend on several factors. Mrs. Morrison is believed by Republican party officials to have the best chance of election in November of the three Democrats.

"First of all, I think the Republicans are overlooking the fact George Wallace has said he will not let the election go into the House," she said. "He has said he will hold his electoral votes and throw them to the candidate he prefers if no candidate receives a majority of the electoral votes."

Popular Choice

Mrs. Morrison said if, in spite of this, the election did go to the House she would vote for the candidate with the largest popular vote if that candidate received an "overwhelming" majority.

"But," she said, "if it were practically a draw, like the Nixon-Kennedy race, then I would have to reserve my opinion as to my choice until I know as the result of the campaign what the candidates stand for. Then it would be my personal choice."

Clair Callan of Odell, running in the First District, said he would vote for the presidential candidate with the largest popular vote. He said after studying the situation, he had decided if the election does go into the House this would be the best action to follow.

Would Rather Wait

J. B. Dean, running in the Third District, said "there are so many 'ifs' involved that I'd rather wait until it happens before I make any decision.

Nebraska has one vote, and I'm not sure what the chances are of getting two Democrats on the Nebraska delegation to the House," he said. "I would rather wait until it happens."

Mrs. Morrison said if the popular vote on the presidential election is close, then "it's too early now to come up with a definite decision.

"But," she said, "if there is a clear choice of the people, I do not want to be a party to an act that would frustrate the mandate of the people."

3rd Party Help Fails At Peace Talks

© New York Times Service

Paris — An American spokesman said Wednesday that third parties had made efforts to help break the deadlock in the Vietnam talks here between the United States and North Vietnam but he indicated there was no progress toward a breakthrough.

William J. Jorden, spokesman for the American negotiating team, provided the first official word of third-party efforts but refused to go into particulars or say whether any third party efforts were still under way.

Jorden was answering questions at a news conference following the 18th meeting between the American and North Vietnamese negotiators, in which they disagreed over the trend of American public opinion on the Vietnam war. Both sides emerged from the three-hour, 20-minute session at the former Hotel Majestic and reported "no progress."

The American spokesman declined to comment specifically on a published report that Vice President Humphrey had been encouraged 10 days ago by one third-party effort to break the stalemate here but had hardened his position after the effort collapsed last weekend.

There was immediate speculation here that this referred to American diplomatic efforts to learn from North Vietnam whether the two month lull in the Vietnam fighting, from mid-May to mid-August, was intended as a political signal. On July 31, a North Vietnamese negotiator hinted guardedly in private that the lull had political significance, but backed away from that interpretation a week later.

Le Duc Tho, a member of Hanoi's ruling circle, attended Wednesday's negotiating session for the first time since late June. He conferred with W. Averell Harriman and Cyrus Vance, the chief American negotiators, during a 39-minute recess period, but there was no indication that he gave any sign that Hanoi would agree to President Johnson's demand for military restraint from North Vietnam in return for a bombing halt.

Equipment for Lancaster County offices will be purchased in quantity with the county board acting as a purchasing agent, the county commissioners said in a statement Wednesday.

The announcement came shortly after the commissioners turned down the purchase of vote recorders proposed by the Election Commission.

Under the present system officials purchase equipment independently as they need it, from the budget allotments set by the county board.

This results in different departments buying small quantities of items which could have been cheaper if purchased collectively, the commissioners contend.

The board eliminated all the amounts designated for equipment costs in the 1968-69 budget requests and set aside a lump sum of about $90,000 for supplies, said William Grossman, chairman of the board.

The board might designate a county purchasing agent later, the statement said. All requests will be directed to the commissioners for approval and purchase by the board.

The commissioners expect the following results: closer supervision of purchasing, to encourage bidding, benefit from quantity purchases, to avoid over buying, utilization of surplus equipment by other departments, close scrutiny of prices and ultimately savings to the taxpayer.

Denney Considers Judicial Legislation

. . . TO REMOVE LIFETIME TENURE OF FEDERAL JUDGES

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Rep. Robert Denney Wednesday said he may propose in the next Congress a constitutional amendment to remove the lifetime tenure of federal judges, and provide for 10-year terms subject to reappointment and reconfirmation.

The First District Republican congressman said in an interview in Lincoln that he is considering offering such a resolution to the 1969 session if he is re-elected this November.

"I definitely believe that it is a judge's job to interpret the Constitution and statutory law, and not give decisions with a tendency to legislate," Denney said.

'Rights of Majority'

Judges, he said, should also "be concerned with the rights of the majority of citizens who obey the law, rather than bend over backwards to release criminals on mere technicalities."

Americans who obey the law have "a right to be protected . . . a right to be safe," Denney said.

If he were a member of the Senate, the Fairbury attorney said, he would not vote to confirm President Johnson's appointment of Supreme Court Justice Abe Fortas to serve as chief justice of the U.S.

No Vacancy

In the first place, Denney said, Chief Justice Earl Warren has not left the court at this time. There is no vacancy, he said.

And, since the chief justice "sets the tenor of the court," Denney said, he believes "the next president should have the opportunity to appoint a man who could set the tenor according to the viewpoint of a majority of the people of this country.

Denney believes "crime and violence in the streets" will be the primary issue in this year's congressional campaigns. Other major issues are the war in Vietnam and "fiscal responsibility," the congressman said.

What is most needed to meet the major issue is "more cooperation between federal, state and local governments," particulary in providing "better training and better equipment" for law enforcement officials, he suggested.

Nomination 'Helpful'

Denney said he believes the nomination of Richard Nixon by the GOP will be "extremely helpful to me" in the contest with former Democratic Rep. Clair Callan.

"Probably, of all the possible nominees, he can do more to help me win," he said. Nebraska is "Nixon country," Denney said, and will be voting Republican this fall.

On the international scene, the congressman said the U.S. should "phase out" U.S. military personnel from Vietnam since it appears unwilling to take necessary action to win the war.

As for the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia, Denney said he believes the U.S. should limit its response to "diplomatic action through the United Nations" and perhaps some form of economic sanctions.

Denney is currently traveling the county fair circuit campaigning for re-election during the congressional recess which ends Sept. 4.

Thus far, he has shaken 15,000 hands on this tour, Denney said, and he will campaign in 22 of the First District's 27 counties during the recess. He will return to campaign in the state on weekends while Congress is in session.

"Denney will win again," he predicted, borrowing from his "Denney Will Win" theme of the 1966 campaign when he succeded in ousting Callan from his House seat.

1878 Building Coming Down

A building, which dates back to 1878, is one of the buildings being torn down by Bennett Martin in order to construct a parking lot south of the Terminal Bldg. on 10th St.

The building, which housed Boyd's Tip Up Bar, also apparently housed a saloon owned by August Hoppe in 1878, according to an old Lincoln city directory.

Havelock Reunion Set For Sunday

The 10th annual Havelock community reunion will be held at noon Sunday in the Havelock Park or in the school building in the event of bad weather.

The reunion is for everyone who has lived, worked or attended school in Havelock, according to the committee in charge of the gathering.

2. LIFETIME ROAD HAZARD GUARANTEE (except repairable punctures) for the life of the original tread. Adjustments prorated on tread wear based on price in effect at the time of adjustment plus Federal Excise Tax.
3. TREAD WEAR GUARANTEE for period specified. Adjustments based on price in effect at the time of adjustment plus Federal Excise Tax of same size and type less a specific Dollar allowance. (Tread wear allowance not applicable to tires used commercially.)
4. SATISFACTION GUARANTEED NATIONWIDE. Return tire to nearest Ward branch for adjustment.

2 fiber glass belts stabilize the tread with a tensile strength greater than steel

That's stable. So stable, the tread won't squirm like it does on ordinary tires. So it wears longer. Up to 40% longer than the same tire without these belts. All that strength holds the tread open. Lays it down flatter. Socks it to the road.

2 plies of tough nylon cord for high speed dependability

FOOD
a cook-out to be remembered

During the long golden days of summer and the first, wonderful days of autumn the outdoor grill becomes the "universal stove" for mealtime gatherings.

Of course, everyone loves thick crusty hamburgers and fat sizzling frankfurters, but there's no need to put awqy your cooking imagination in mothballs along with winter belongings.

Ordinary charcoal grilled chicken, for example, becomes a sensational dish when it's lavishly covered with a spicy crunchy apple sauce topping.

The smooth-bodied apple sauce with its just-right tang blends the sting of dry mustard, the nip of lemon juice and rind and the slightly tart tingle of apple juice sweetened with brown sugar along with the nutty flavor of toasted almonds.

Then the chicken and sauce bubble in a homemade aluminum pan, becoming a delectable main dish that will bring calls for "more, please!"

DELECTABLE CHICKEN CAPRICE

2 cups canned apple sauce
½ cup apple juice
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
½ cup brown sugar
½ teaspoon dry mustard
½ cup toasted slivered almonds
1 broiler-fryer chicken, cut in quarters
¼ cup melted butter or margarine
½ teaspoon salt

Combine apple sauce, apple juice, lemon juice, lemon rind, brown sugar, dry mustard and almonds. Brush chicken with butter and season with salt on both sides. Brown chicken on both sides on grate about 4 inches from heat. To make a foil pan, tear a 2 foot length of 18-inch wide heavy duty aluminum foil. Fold in half lengthwise. Turn edges up 2-inches all around. Fold corners closed. Place chicken in pan and place on grill. Pour apple sauce mixture over chicken. Cover pan loosely with foil. Cook for 45 minutes. Turn chicken once and spoon sauce over it. Remove foil cover and cook for 15 minutes. Makes 4 servings. To serve, spoon sauce left in pan over chicken.

FRANKFURTERS PAID RESPECT

Frankfurters! Hot Dogs! Weiners! Franks! How did we cook without them? Call them what you will, billions of these favorites are consumed in our country yearly — at home, at the ball park, at the beach and picnic areas.

In fact, if all the hot dogs eaten in 1967 were placed end to end they would reach to the moon and back for two round trips plus seven orbits around the earth!

All franks are completely cooked. They need only to be heated through for serving hot.

Here's a quick suggestion. Prepare them as Rollups with packaged baking powder biscuits. Simply flatten out each biscuit and roll around a frank. Arrange on a cookie sheet and bake according to directions on package for baking biscuits. Serve topped with a dash of hot mustard sauce.

MENUS WITH SALAMI

Salami is European in origin with a majority of the varieties tracing their origin to Italy. Today the many varieties produced in our country have made it an American sausage favorite.

For a hot luncheon idea here's a Broiled Salami Specialty. Cut 4 large English muffins in half and toast cut surface in your broiler.

When The Meat Man Says—

When your meat man says—

"Braise it." If that's how your meat retailer says to prepare a cut of meat, then here's how it is done.

First, brown the meat in a small amount of lard or drippings. When thoroughly browned, pour off the drippings that have accumulated and season the meat with salt and pepper.

Next, add a small amount of liquid. From ¼ to ⅓ cup is usually sufficient. Then cover the pan tightly and let the meat simmer over low heat until done.

If necessary more liquid may be added, a small amount at a time, during cooking. Time needed for braising meat will be determined by the size and thickness of the particular cut.

PANBROIL OR GRIDDLEBROIL

Which is the correct term, panbroil or griddlebroil? Actually these terms mean the same type of meat cookery and may be used interchangeably.

Meat cuts suitable for broiling but cut less than an inch thick are best prepared by this method. This includes such cuts as ham slices, Canadian-style bacon, lamb chops, steaks, etc.

To panbroil or griddlebroil place meat in heavy frying-pan or on a griddle. Do not add fat or water. Do not cover. Cook meat slowly, turning occasionally. Pour off or remove fat as it accumulates. If fat is allowed to collect the meat will fry instead of panbroil.

Brown meat on both sides. Be sure not to overcook. Season and serve at once.

CHATEAUBRIAND VS. TURNEDOS

If the menu reveals the words "Chateaubriand" or "tournedos" are you in the know? Actually, both dishes are prepared with beef tenderloin.

Chateaubriand, a favorite of French chefs, is a thick steak cut from the largest part of the tenderloin. It is served broiled to the desired degree of doneness and is usually listed on restaurant menus "for two."

Tournedos are steaks cut from the small end of the tenderloin. They are broiled and served two to three slices per portion and frequently with an herb sauce.

Keeping cool won't be difficult when you move your kitchen to the backyard and cook your roast on a rotisserie. Because of variations in rotisseries and cooking temperature it's wise to use a meat thermometer to determine doneness.

Ice Cream And Cookie Time

To go along with your favorite flavored ice cream, make a batch of Frosted Sour Cream Drops. This buttery cookie is flavored with almond and has that special baked quality that dairy sour cream provides. A decorative as well as flavor touch is the wonderful butter icing that tops each cookie.

FROSTED SOUR CREAM DROPS

1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon baking powder
1 cup (2 sticks) butter
1-½ cups sugar
2 eggs
1 tablespoon vanilla

Sift together flour, salt, baking powder and soda. Cream butter and sugar until light and fluffy. Beat in eggs, vanilla and almond extracts. Add dry ingredients alternately with sour cream; blend. Chill thoroughly. Drop level tablespoons of dough 2 inches apart on greased baking sheet. Keep dough well chilled until baked, taking a portion of dough out of refrigerator at a time, if necessary. Bake in moderate oven, 375, 10 to 12 minutes. Cool. Spread tops of cookies with Butter Frosting and top with almonds, if desired. Makes about 6 dozen cookies.

BUTTER FROSTING

2-½ cups sifted confectioners' sugar
Dash salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
½ teaspoon almond extract
2 tablespoons light cream
Browned unblanched almonds, if desired

Cream butter. Add remaining ingredients except almonds and cream until spreading consistency. Spread teaspoonfuls on cookies. Top each with an almond, if desired. Makes 1 cup frosting.

ABBY

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Please notice that this letter is from Elizabeth, New Jersey. There is a man I go with and like very much, but he is a nut about one thing. He wears Texas type cowboy boots all the time! He wears regular clothes like every other well-dressed man in Elizabeth, but he will not wear anything else but these western style boots. I once asked him if he's from Texas, but he said no. He had once visited in Fort Worth and had become accustomed to cowboy boots — and found them to be so comfortable that he now won't wear anything else.

Don't you think they are out of place here? How can I get him to chuck these boots and be more normal?

INTERESTED IN HIM

DEAR INTERESTED: Let him wear what he wants, and don't criticize him. And if you are truly "interested in him," keep him foot happy. No man ever proposed to a woman when his feet hurt.

DEAR ABBY: Our son recently was divorced and married again. His second wife (also divorced) worked for him and there was a lot of talk about these two. Many said it was she who broke up his home.

We tried to be friendly and invited them to our home for supper many times. They came only once, and after that they were always "busy." Our son drops in to see us often, without her. We have never been invited to their home.

One Sunday, when our son was here, his wife phoned for him and I answered. She said, "I hope you don't feel hurt that I don't see more of you, but I would rather associate with other people. I don't want to get too attached to you for the simple reason that when you pass away I won't miss you so much."

Needless to say, I was dumbfounded. What do you make of this? We're not going to force ourselves on her. But isn't there something wrong with her thinking? What would you do in our place?

HURT

DEAR HURT: I would steer clear of her. And tell your son to save his money. He may need it for psychiatric help. She sounds sick.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal., 90069 and enclose astamped, self-addressed envelope.

Clues To The 1968 Models In Women

BY JEAN SPRAIN WILSON

New York — How do you tell the 1968 model woman from last season's style conscious creatures?

You check the amount of make-up on her face, how much or little she wraps around the middle, the width of her skirts, and the foreign accent of her costume.

How do you tell how much money she really has? By the signature she wears on her scarf, by the fur on her midicoat, and the gems on her ball gown.

About the face, you either cover it up altogether and concentrate on your figure — the way Jacques Tiffeau did for his fall collection — or you paint it up brighter than ever. Pale faces are passe, designer Morton Miles said. Especially with the delicate pastels in vogue for fall. Faces may require more time and money being kept in repair than hair, said coiffurist Kenneth Batelle recently. He envisions nearly all women making regular appointments at their salon to get their make-up painted on before an important engagement.

At any rate, hair does not seem to be in favor.

Models in big furry berets, or sultan's turbans might as well have been bald for all the hair in view. They could have been wearing curlers under the mamoth gold mesh bath towel turbans worn by Chester Weeinberg's manikins.

The hip spread silhouette accomplished in most collections by pleats, gatherings, crinolines, and even padding got superwide treatment by Weinberg, who designed balloon-like caliph skirts. The middle must be little for '68, either wrapped with a half a foot of leather — as Weinberg did it — or left bare, as Roxanne did it for the Samuel Winston collection.

You tell how rich a woman is by her casualness about practicalities. Since midis are sure to get muddy, the height of disregard is to buy one banded not in lesser furs like skunk and fox but extravagant chinchilla. The Weinberg way of course, you always judge a woman's worth by her gems. This fall you judge by where she wears them — not at the clavicle but at the midriff.

Attendants Named

Making announcement this morning of the members of her bridal party is Miss Jane Ann Lind whose marriage to Douglas Bruce Mitchell will be solemnized on Saturday evening, August 24.

For the ceremony, which will take place at 7:30 at Christ Methodist Church, Miss Lind has named Miss Janet Carlson of Austin, Tex. as her honor attendant.

Her bridesmaids will be her sister, Miss Carolyn Lind; Miss Janet Davidson; and Miss Dorianne Snodgrass of Pierre, S.D.

William Charles Johnson of Great Barrington, Mass. will serve Mr. Mitchell as best man, and seating the guests will be Richard Bringelson, Gary Hardt, David Keifer of Omaha, Carl Schneider of Clinton, N.Y., and Dennis Lind, brother of the bride-elect.

Lighting the chancel candles will be Miss Sue Henderson and Mrs. Larry Beaty, and Miss Liwana Bringelson and Dennison Wright will serve as flower girl and ring bearer.

Miss Lind, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Lind, is a student at the University of Nebraska, from which Mr. Mitchell, the son of Mrs. Philip H. Mitchell, received his degree in June.

Fun News In Suburbia

We spoke to you recently about it being that time — back-to-school time, to be specific, but we forgot to mention that back-to-school means not just back-to-the-books for your youngsters, but also back-to-school for you, too. In other words back to PTA, Parents Night, parent-teacher conferences and so on and so forth. And we don't want to send you off without doing your homework. So don't be alarmed if, when visiting your children's school, you don't understand some of the new language used by teachers. Just turn to our Parents Primer of Common Teacher Talk.

For instances, innovation is THE teacher word of 1968 and means anything new introduced into a classroom, from new math to new ways to arrange desks. Multi- is teacher's favorite prefix — such as multimedia, multilevel or multigrade — and means a lot of whatever you are talking about. A paraprofessional is not a parachuting teacher, not even a teacher, for that matter, but a volunteer or paid worker, who helps out in the classroom and library correcting papers, cataloging books and generally freeing teachers from paper work. They are also called teacher-aides or auxiliary personnel and many are mothers.

Well, enough teacher talk for today, but see what we mean when we say that the youngsters are not the only people who have to study up to go back to school.

One name in this morning's news is returning to school but not exactly the type of school we have been talking about. Richard Dill, who is on leave from the United States Coast Guard, is visiting with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Dill of Lincoln Heights. Mr. Dill, who just arrived on Tuesday, Aug. 13 from his year's assignment in Alaska, will leave Tuesday, Aug. 27, for Corpsman's School in Great Lakes, Ill. He will spend 98 days at the Great Lakes school studying to be a hospital corpsman or medic before being assigned to New London, Conn. for clinical experience in his field.

Country Club Terrace has been becoming acquainted with a new family of teachers ever since the Franklin Mills family moved to Lincoln from Crete. The Mills, who have three children, Frank, 11, Marlys, 8, and Jeffery, 7, are the newcomers at 2528 Woods Blvd. All of the younger Mills will be attending Merle Beattie School, while Mr. Mills will be teaching vocal music at Lincoln Southeast High School as of Sept. 3, and Mrs. Mills, who plans to substitute, will be teaching in Lincoln's elementary schools.

One player's reaction to a given set of circumstances may differ entirely from another's reaction to the same set of circumstances. Nowhere is this brought out more forcibly than in duplicate bridge.

This deal occurred in a team of four match. At the first table West led the ten of diamonds and declarer, conscious of the danger of a diamond ruff and consequently anxious to draw trumps as soon as possible, won with the queen and played the ten of hearts.

East took the king and returned a diamond. Declarer won with the jack and led another trump. West grabbed the ace, led a spade to his partner's ace, and when East returned a diamond, West ruffed to put declarer down one.

At the second table West also led the ten of diamonds against four hearts. But the declarer at this table, equally aware that only a diamond ruff could defeat him, adopted a different method of play to guard against the ruff.

He won the diamond lead in dummy with the ace and played the king of spades.

East won with the ace and returned a diamond, just as at the first table. But South now took the diamond with the queen and cashed the Q-J of spades, discarding the K-9 of diamonds from dummy.

Declarer then led the jack of diamonds and it did not matter whether West ruffed or not. The only tricks South lost were a spade and two trumps, and the result was that he made four hearts.

It is true that in most cases where a ruff is imminent, declarer meets the problem headon by leading trumps at once to try to forestall the ruff, but obviously there can be no hard and fast rule to deal with all such situations. Each hand must be judged on its own circumstances.

—And The B,PW Federation Wants To Know Why

'Twas ever thus, and the chances are that the status of women in the business world will remain just as it is for a long time to come — as long as there are men, one might say.

Women aren't just sure where to place the blame for their dilemma. And no one really can say just when this gap between the sexes, financially and executive-wise, began. It didn't begin in England — that country has been ruled by women — The same is true of France and Holland.

The American woman, it seems, is allegedly the 'clinging vine' even in business or a profession. The joker is that the American woman is far from a clinger — She is intelligent and, in the majority of cases, well educated and efficient

So, the National Federation of Business and Professional Women wants some answers to some questions. It has asked the Democratic Party to include within its platform a plank calling for "true equality before the laws of all persons regardless of sex."

The Federation made the same request of the Republican Party when its platform committee met in Miami Beach, Florida, on July 31.

In a statement prepared for delivery to the platform committee of the Democratic Party at the Statler-Hilton Hotel, Washington, D.C., BPW National Legislative Chairman, Miss Jane Culbreth, Leeds, Alabama, said that the "place of women in America today is not as it should be."

The BPW statement highlighted:

Equal Rights Amendment to the Constitution—providing "equality of rights under the law shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any state on account of sex."

Employment — seeking a "vigorous and dedicated Equal Employment Opportunity Commission with the power. personnel and money to accomplish its task."

Crime Control—urging dedication to the prevention of crime and the enforcement of law and order.

BPW is a national federation founded in 1919 and composed of state federations and local clubs whose aggregate membership exceeds 178,300, the statement said. Clubs operate in every congressional district, Puerto Rico, the District of Columbia, and the Virgin Islands.

Miss Culbreth traced the growth of women in the nation's labor force from 16,683,000 or 32% in 1947 to approximately 28,395,000 or 42 percent in 1967.

"Unfortunately, the rights of women workers have not maintained the pace of the volume of workers in the labor force," she said.

She said that "barriers to women's employment and to their occupational progress generate feelings of injustice and frustration."

She cited an earlier report of the President's Commission on the Status of Women which said: "Failure to develop and use the talents of women is a waste the Nation cannot afford. The public interest requires elimination of restrictions on employment of women and the assurances of fair compensation and equal job treatment on a merit basis."

The statement said the equal rights amendment had been introduced in every Congress since 1923 and had twice passed the Senate.

"Each time, however, the so-called Hayden rider was attached which in effect has operated to kill the amendment," the statement said.

The rider provided that the amendment shall not be construed to impair any rights, benefits, or exemptions now or hereinafter conferred by law, upon persons of the female sex.

"The Hayden rider would preserve the 'protective legislation' now in existence which operates, not to afford protection to female employees, but to restrict the employment opportunities of many female workers. 'Protective legislation,' passed at the turn of the century to rescue factory women from sweatshop conditions, is now used as an excuse to deny women overtime and promotion."

Questions And Answers

Q. Will lying up-side-down on a beauty board avoid wrinkles?

A. No. There is a theory that this is a helpful procedure because it speeds circulation in the face. The facial tissues may even become slightly swollen, thus minimizing lines. However this is temporary.

Q. My problem is a very embarrassing one. I am sure other women must have it too. When I put on a two piece bathing suit the hair on my abdomen shows. This is very dark and heavy. I am afraid a cream would make it worse. I am in desperate need of your advice.

A. By all means rid yourself of this unnecessary embarrassment. I suppose you mean a depilatory cream. This will not make the hair worse. It "melts" it off at skin level. The hair will grow back but you can repeat the use of a depilatory as often as needed.

Q. My question is why do I get cracks in my heels, and even in my fingers and the palms of my hands as soon as the weather gets a little colder? I dread fall for this reason. The skin on my heels is thick and large cracks break in them. It is painful. How can I avoid this?

A. The condition yo u describe sounds so extreme that I think you should consult a physician about it. If you are not having this trouble now, begin immediately to give your feet special care before cold weather arrives. Each night soak your feet in warm soapy water. Use a rough cloth or a bath brush or pumice stone to remove some of the rough skin. After drying, massage a lotion or cream into the feet.

Q. I wore very pointed-toe shoes for many years and now I am ashamed of my feet. My toes are short and are crooked. I thought if I wore sandals and square-toed shoes my toes would straighten out. They haven't. What can I do?

A. Do not wear any more pointed toes! Be sure that your feet have plenty of room. Some of the shoes which are square right at the tip can still crowd your toes.

Perhaps they will straighten out some by themselves if you give them a chance. You might be wise to see a podiatrist or chiropodist. He could at least remove corns and callouses.

Q. I am 13 years old and would like to know what the right weight is for a 13-year-old girl who is 5 feet 4. I don't want to get overweight and I think I should watch it because my mother and her sisters are all fat, just plain fat! I love them but I do not want to be fat. Am I already fat? I weigh 110 pounds. I would like to slim my waist a little anyway.

A. No, honeybun, you are not fat. One hundred and fifteen pounds is about right for you. However if you have a small frame you may be perfect as you are. I think you are smart to watch your weight since overweight seems to "run" in your family. Of course inheritance could play a part in creating this tendency. However, more likely, your mother and her sisters inherited their father's and mother's eating habits.

He's Training for the Future. Your carrier boy is forming habits now that will be important in later life. Your suggestions on ways he can improve will be appreciated. Notify Circulation Dept.

They Wear Pretty Clothes In Pakistan

By ANGELA TAYLOR
(c) New York Times Service

New York—In Pakistan, the different castes are recognizable by the pattern of their garments. When John Gregg wanted to buy the red, white and black pattern reserved for bone-pickers (scavengers), a Pakistani merchant was convinced that Americans must be mad. If the peddler in the Karachi Bazaar could see his embroidered vest draped on a half-nude model on the cover of a recent Saturday Evening Post, he might blow his Moslem cool.

Gregg started buying native crafts when he was in Pakistan last year because "I loved the fabrics." Bright young things are snapping up the garments, because they are part of the fashion revolt against stereotyped fashions. The clothes adapt easily to the current passion for nudity when they are worn singly rather than in the many-layered eastern way.

The painstakingly tied-and-dyed fabrics, with their mysterious caste patterns, happen to be cotton gauze and alluringly see-through. The chole, or back-tied blouse the Pakistani woman wraps up in a shawl, stops just under Western bosoms. The kurta, minus its ankle-lngth pants, translates here to minidress.

"Nobody really looked at Pakistani crafts, except the tourist junk," said Gregg, a 35-year-old Californian who, with his wife, Joan, recently started an import business called Serai. Headquarters of Serai (the name means caravan stop) are in Gregg's apartment in Chinatown.

The Greggs went to Karachi a year ago because he had a job with an American marketing institute that was setting up an export library to aid local businessmen.

The Greggs traveled to the villages and were entranced with the natives costumes.

New Contact Lens

A large contact lens that fits the eye like a glove is providing dramatic new hope for victims of defective eyesight — even enabling some who are legally blind to see.

Scleral contact lenses — so named because they hug the "sclera," or white of the eye — are worn by only a small minority of the seven million Americans who use contact lenses. (Most wear the more familiar corneal lenses, which fit over the iris and pupil.) But an August Reader's Digest article reports that they have offered dramatic help to many whose sight is so poor that they cannot read, enjoy television, drive a car or hold a job demanding normal vision.

One of those helped by scleral lenses was George Sauer, star football end for the New York Jets. Two years ago his career looked gloomy — he couldn't seem to catch the ball. An examination showed his right eye vision was only 20-200. Sauer tried a scleral lens, more likely than a corneal lens to stay in place under football's jarring impact. Last season, helped by the lens, Sauer became the American Football League's leading pass receiver.

Even more dramatic was the case of Monsignor Frances X. McGuire of New Canaan, Conn. He hadn't seen out of his left eye since the cornea and lens were pierced by a tree branch when he was 15 years old. Yet, fitted with a scleral lens, the eye that had not seen in 43 years now has 20-20 vision.

Doctors make the scleral lens in much the way a dentist makes a mouth impression. From a plaster "negative" of the eye, a lens is produced that follows every curve and contour of the eyeball. Fit under the lid, it is much harder to shake loose than a corneal lens.

In addition to aiding vision, the scleral lens offers science an aid to healing that Dr. Louis J. Girard of Baylor University College of Medicine calls "one of the most exciting developments in ophthalmology." Doctors can virtually seal off an injured eye with a scleral lens, protecting it from irritation by the eyelid and raising the eye-surface temperature so that it is like a warm compress.

Scientists in the field foresee further gains in the next decade, as they learn even more of how sclerals produce their therapeutic effects.

Bride At Evening Church Ceremony

Moonstone blue chrysanthemums and white gladioli appointed the chancel of the Eastridge Presbyterian Church where the wedding of Miss Kathryn Elizabeth Coons, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray E. Coons, to William Everett Thomsen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sayles A. Thomsen, took place on Saturday evening, Aug. 17. Dr. Thomas Huxtable solemnized the 7:30 o'clock service.

The maid of honor and only attendant was Miss Shelley Stoll whose silhouette frock of moonstone blue silk was in the Empire mode and was fashioned with a crescent neckline and elbow-length sleeves which were completed with a Renaissance ruffle of Cluny lace. She carried a nosegay of white carnations.

The bride chose a gown of Irish linen for her wedding. Accenting the Empire bodice was Venetian lace which was repeated to contour the crescent neckline and band the wrist-length sleeves, and giving back interest to the A-line skirt was a panel that extended into a cotillion train. Pearl encrusted lace petals and an illusion rosette held to the head her bouffant veil, and she carried a nosegay of white roses encircled with greenery.

Mr. Thomsen and his bride will reside at 4432 Hillside St., in Lincoln.

Mr. Thomsen attended the Milford Vocational School and now is associated with the city's department of engineering.

Wednesday Wedding

The wedding of Miss Sally Mae Brunkow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar DeVries of Firth, and Stanley H. Docter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry H. Docter of Lincoln took place on Wednesday evening, Aug. 21, at the Firth Reformed Church.

Wearing alike, floor-length frocks of yellow organza the attendants were Miss Bonnie Gross of Western, the maid of honor, and bridesmaids Miss Connie Westadt of Falls City; Miss Kathy Clark of Omaha; Miss Joyce Docter and Mrs. Jack Walvoord, both of Lincoln. They carried white chrysanthemums dusted with gold.

Dennis Grams of Lincoln served as best man, and the ushers included Larry Grams, Michael Hayman, Michael Kroon, all of Lincoln, and Norman Essink of Holland.

For her wedding the bride chose a gown of white organza designed in the cage mode. Re-embroidered lace patterned the gown from the yoke, beneath a rolled satin collar, to the hemline of the long skirt, also banded in satin and the lace and satin were repeated on a back panel which extended into a train. Her shoulder-length veil was held in place with a crown of jeweled leaves, and she carried a bouquet of daisies.

Mr. Docter and his bride will reside in Omaha.

The bride has completed her sophomore year at the University of Nebraska, and Mr. Docter is a Tau Delta Sigma graduate of the Nebraska Vocational Technical School.

TOWN TALK

We are sure that it will come as no surprise, but we're also certain that Lincoln will have considerable interest in news from Texas this morning.

Our news is the announcement of the marriage of Betty Dick Chapin of Lincoln to G. Robert Ross, also of Lincoln, which took place on Wednesday afternoon, Aug. 21. Only the immediate members of the families attended the ceremony which was solemnized at 2 o'clock at the home of Mr. Ross' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ross in Bryan, Tex.

Mr. Ross and his bride will reside at 2330 Woodsdale in Lincoln.

Mr. Ross, as almost everyone knows, is Vice-Chancellor for Student Affairs at the University of Nebraska where he also is Dean of Student Affairs, and a professor in educational psychology and measurements.

* * *

When Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Putney entertained at a family dinner at the Lincoln Country Club on Wednesday evening, they paid courtesy to their niece, Miss Nancy Knott who leaves early in Stptember for Boston, Mass.

Miss Knott received her degree in nutrition from the University of Nebraska where she is a member of Sigma Kappa sorority.

In Boston Miss Knott will intern at the Frances Stern Nutrition Clinic at Tufts University New England Medical Center.

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures gives you.

MARICHAL GAINS 23RD WIN

Bomb Threat Interrupts Giant Victory Over NY

. . . MAYS BELTS TWO-RUN HOMER

By Associated Press

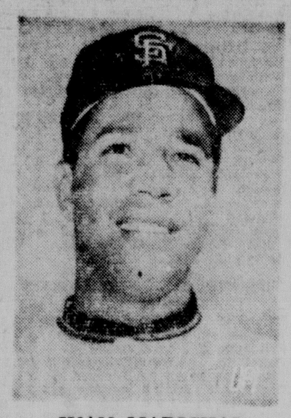
Willie Mays whacked a two-run homer during a six-run explosion and Juan Marichal scored his 23rd victory as San Francisco crushed the New York Mets 13-3 Wednesday in a game interrupted briefly because of bomb threats.

Trailing 2-1, the Giants erupted for their big inning in the fifth. Singles by Jesus Alou, Hal Lanier and Bobby Bonds scored one run and Ron Hunt drove in two more with a double. Mays followed with his 16th season and 580th career homer, a drive over the left center field fence off rookie Jim McAndrew. Three more singles, the last by Dick Dietz, accounted for the sixth run.

Run-producing singles by Bonds, Willie McCovey, and Jim Davenport and Hunt's run-scoring double highlighted a four-run sixth inning for San Francisco.

It was while the Giants were batting in the sixth that police cleared the Giants' and Mets' dugouts and had the tarpaulin searched because of two bomb warnings called into police headquarters. Play was halted for five minutes but nothing was found. There were 38,495 persons in the park, 32,023 of them paid.

Marichal, the National League leader in victories, was touched for the Mets' first two tallies in the third.



JUAN MARICHAL

Larry Stahl homered for the first run.

The runs were the first scored for McAndrew, brought up from Jacksonville last month. He had lost 1-0 twice and 2-0 twice in his four previous starts.

Williams' seven RBIs came on his 22nd homer, a single, a sacrifice fly and a double.

Dick Hughes' relief pitching and the hitting of Phil Gagliano and Tim McCarver paced the St. Louis Cardinals to an 8-3 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies.

After the Phillies had scored three runs in the fourth inning on four singles and three errors, Hughes, 2-3 replaced Steve Carlton with two on and one out and stopped Philadelphia until Joe Hoerner came in to get the final out.

The Cardinals took a 4-3 lead in the fifth on run-scoring singles by Gagliano, Bobby Tolan and Roger Maris.

Horacio Pina, backed by an eight-run explosion in the fifth inning, won his first major league start as the Cleveland Indians trounced the Boston Red Sox 8-2.

Jim Price clubbed a pinch hit homer in the 10th inning, giving the Detroit Tigers a 3-2 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

Price, batting for reliever Darryl Patterson with one out in the 10th, tagged a Wilbur Wood pitch over the left field fence for his second homer of the season.

Mickey Stanley knotted the score with a two-out homer in the eighth off White Sox relief ace Bob Locker. Stanley's 10th homer was the first run off Locker in his last 30 innings of relief, covering 19 games.

Roberto Clemente hit home runs in his first two at-bats and Donn Clendenon drove in five runs with a homer and a double sparking Pittsburgh to a 19-1 trouncing of Cincinnat

Clemente slammed his 13th homer with the bases empty in the first and then hit a solo shot in the third.

The Pirates went in the seventh with a 6-1 lead, and Clendenon then smashed his 15th homer with two men on.

Pittsburgh added four runs on six hits in the eighth and got six more on six hits in the ninth. Clendenon doubled home two in the ninth.

In other games, Houston whipped Los Angeles, 6-1, and the New York Yankees edged Minnesota, 2-1.

. . . COACH WANTS IT COOL

By VIRGIL PARKER
Prep Sports Writer

Fremont — "Charlie Moore of Lincoln High has been the most pleasant surprise of the past few days. I'd heard a lot about his defensive abilities, and that's where we were using him. But he's a real horse on offense too."

Leonard Bond, head coach of the Shrine Bowl's North squad, was reviewing his personnel as D-Day approached for Saturday's big charity game.

The Yankee troops of the Omaha North mentor had a spirited workout Tuesday despite 90-degree heat. "If this hot, muggy weather is still with us Saturday, it will make it almost mandatory to use a complete platoon system," Bond observed. "We'd like it to be about 40. We have several boys we'd like to use both ways. Moore will be one of them who will see some action on both offense and defense anyway."

Bond said he would announce his starting lineup by Thursday. "By that time the game captains will be selected, too." he added.

CHARLIE MOORE

Bond also had praise for Creighton Prep's Brian Linstrom, who is expected to draw the opening call at quarterback.

"He's getting used to the other receivers," the grid boss said. "Brian was hitting teammate Dan Crnkovich from the beginning. Now he's on to the speed and moves of the others and our passing game has improved."

The entire North coaching staff is high on end Ernie Britt from Omaha Tech. "He's fast, has the moves and a great pair of hands," was the general comment. Then they added the warning, "The South had better not try to cover him too tight or he'll lose 'em."

All has not been rosy in the North camp though. Bond's quarterback from North High, Barry Vacanti, required six stitches in his leg after Sunday's scrimmage. Monday, Schuyler's all-state tackle Joe Sobota cut his hand and needed the same treatment.

"If we keep this up," Bond noted, "the doctor here will be a qualified seamstress before we leave town."

Bond was able to talk lightly of the problem, for he has been assured that barring further complications, everyone on the squad will be ready for action.

"That of course is with the exception of Bill Pogge," Bond said, referring to the Omaha Holy Name ace who was injured and declared out by the doctors in the first two days of training.

"We won't have any more hard contact," the North team coach said. "We'll work on timing and execution in the hopes of putting up a real battle."

Gossick Leads Diving Qualifiers

Long Beach, Calif. (AP) — Sue Gossick of Tarzana, Calif., an Olympian who took fourth place in 1964, led qualifiers Wednesday into the finals of the women's three-meter springboard Olympic Trials.

Miss Gossick, 20, scored 283.17 points in the preliminary dives to lead a field of 12 into Wednesday night's finals at the Belmont Plaza Pool.

The three top point scorers after the final dives will be named to the Olympic team.

The Qualifiers:

Sue Gossick, Tarzana, Calif., 283.17; Rachel O'Sullivan, Honolulu, Hawaii, 276.66; Lesley Bush, Princeton, N. J., 274.11; Ann Peterson, Bellevue, Wash., 270.99; Joel O'Connell, Santa Clara, Calif., 267.57; Cindy Potter, Houston, 267.09; Jerrie Adair, Woodland Hills, Calif., 261.00; Micki King, Pontiac, Mich., 257.61; Patty Simms, Laguna Beach, Calif., 253.68; Lani Loken, Ann Arbor, Mich., 254.77; Barbara Schaefer, Berea, Ohio, 249.64 and Morma Chandler, Fairfax, Va. 239.52.

Foster Says He Can Whip Any Fighter

Albuquerque, N.M. (AP) — World light heavyweight boxing champion Bobby Foster, training for a nontitle fight next Monday against Eddie Vick, says he can whip any fighter in the world.

"I'll fight anybody," Foster said. "I can whip any fighter in the world, and that includes the heavyweights."

Foster, in the city where he grew up, said in an interview with Albuquerque Tribune sports editor Carlos Salazar that when he fought heavyweights early in his career "I wasn't ready for them, mentally. But I have all the confidence in the world in my ability."

Battle Over Sponsorship Casts Shadow On Philly Golf Classic

Phialdelphia (AP) — Pro golfers, spending as much time in meeting rooms these days as on the course, put away the gavels and take out the clubs Thursday for the first round of the $100,000 Philadelphia Golf Classic.

Dan Sikes, now the tour's seventh leading money winner with $98,562, defends his title in the four-day, 72-hole test over the 6,708-yard par 36-36—72 Whitemarsh Valley Country Club course.

The competition begins under an atmosphere of tension. Veterans on the tour do not know if this will be their last tournament under the aegis of the Professional Golfers Association (PGA.)

Led by Gardner Dickinson, Frank Beard, Jack Nicklaus and Billy Casper, among others on a 13-man board, the pros are organizing their own group to run the tour — the American Professional Golfers (APG).

A metting was held Tuesday night at Whitemarsh in which Max Elbin, national PGA president, told some 70 of the touring pros he didn't recognize their new group. Elbin said a new tournament entry blank was being prepared.

"A player who signs it may continue on the PGA tour," Elbin said. "Those who don't sign will be ineligible."

The PGA executive said he wasn't sure how soon the new blank would be ready since certain legal points have to be ironed out.

Tht entire scene was one of confusion. Elbin admitted tournament sponsors and the television network involved probably would sue both the players and the PGA if the top pros don't paly in tournaments already scheduled.

He said the PGA "didn't bargain or ask for this, but we're ready for it."

DAN SIKES

Elbin indicated the new entry blank, which would make an outcast of any pro failing to sign, might be ready in time for the Thunderbird Tournament starting Aug. 29 at Montclair, N.J. "Then again, it might be later," he said.

The new players organization held its own meeting Wednesday night with attorney Sam Gates of New York presiding.

Gates, who is handling the legal aspects of the APG, described the closed conference as organizational. He indicated it might last four or five hours, including dinner.

While the pros and their parent organization chipped away at each other, practice for the almost forgotten Philadelphia Classic went ahead.

Panamanian Lightweight Boxing Pair Throwback To Ring's Golden Days

New York (AP) — When Panama's swift lightwieghts, Ismael Laguna and Antonio Amaya, perform in the same ring, they should be billed as "Me and my shadow."

Their styles are similar — and no wonder. Both are from the same town of Colon and Laguna was the younger Amaya's teacher.

Some of the Panamanians who came north to see them fight and win at Madison Square Garden Tuesday night claim the pupil now has surpassed the teacher, a former lightweight champion.

But they are both so skillful and enjoyable to watch that even the die-hard fight fans — fans who moan about the good old days of boxing — concede they are throwbacks to the 1930sa nd 1940s.

Amaya, 22, and ranked fifth in the junior lightweight (130 pounds) class, made his U.S. debut a sparkling occasion by outclassing lightweight contender Frankie Narvaez of Puerto Rico in 10 rounds.

The sinewy youngster, jabbing, hookin', uppercutting and flurry punching like Laguna — only a little faster — made his bout with Narvaez appear like a match between the tortoise and the hare. And the 27-year-old Narvaez is no slowpoke.

Amaya, now a full-fledged lightweight at 136 pounds, has a 26-3-1 won-lost record.

"We're going to bring him back," said matchmaker Teddy Brenner. "And Laguna and Marshall, too. They're flashy fighters and they know what it's all about."

But there won't be any fight between the two Panamanians, although both of them are eager to fight their way to a title fight with champion Teo Cruz of the Dominican Republic.

"A lot of people in Panama try to make that fight between us," said Laguna. "But I no make that fight. He is a close friend. I teach him how to fight. For five years I teach. I'll never fight him—not even for the championship."

"Maybe some day I'll have to make that match," said Brenner. "That will be something to see."

Three Nations Drop Activities With Russia

Stockholm, Sweden (AP) — Sweden, Norway and Denmark announced Wednesday their withdrawal from several sports activities with Russia and East Germany because of the invasion of Czechoslovakia.

The Swedish Ice Hockey Association said it had canceled a planned training camp with a Russian squad in Sweden, Aug. 23-Sept. 6; Sweden, Norway and Denmark withdrew from the European Junior track meet scheduled for Leipzig, East Germany, Aug. 23-25, and the Swedes canceled a men's gymnastics meet against East Germany at Cottbus, East Germany, Aug. 24-25.

The Swedish Ice Hockey Association, after an extraordinary meeting of its executive committee, issued a communique saying:

"Due to the present international situation, the Swedish Ice Hockey Association has to cancel the training camp in Sweden for CSKA of Moscow, scheduled for Aug. 23-Sept. 6. The decision is final."

The association sent a cable to Moscow and its president, Helge Berglund, informing Alexander Emeljanov, sports attache at the Soviet Embassy in Stockholm, of the reason for the decision.

U.S. Olympic Trackmen Run Friday

Eugene, Ore. (AP) —Three Canadians and an Australian will give a dash of international flavor Friday evening to a training meet of the U.S. Olympic track and field squad.

Attention will center, though, on such American stars as Jim Ryun of Kansas in the 1,500 meters or the mile; Gerry Lindgren of Washington State and Billy Mills, 1964 Olympic champion, in the 10,000 meters; and Lee Evans of San Jose State in the 200 and 400 meters.

Harry Jerome, Canadian sprint champion and University of Oregon alumnus, is entered in the 100 and 200 meters. Norm Trerise in the 1,500 meters or mile and Bill Greenough in the triple jump are the other Canadians entered.

Gary Knocke, Australian student at Oregon, is in the 400 meter hurdles where his 1968 best time of 49.8 puts him in contention with Tom Whitney of the Southern California Striders, whose 49.5 is the best this year for the U.S. hurdlers.

The squad's sprinters and field event competitors have been divided between this meet and one in Houston.

Damascus Withdrawn From Dr. Fager Duel

Chicago (AP) — Damascus is skipping Saturday's $100,000-added Washington Park handicap — and a confrontation with Dr. Fager — to point for the equally rich Aqueduct Handicap Labor Day in New York.

A possible showdown for Horse of the Year honors at Arlington Park between Damascus and Dr. Fager dissipated Wednesday with the decision of Damascus' handlers to scratch their nominee from the Washington Handicap.

Trainer Frank Whitely told turf writers here by telephone the $100,000-added Aqueduct's distance of 1 1-16 mile was more suited to Damascus than the Washington Handicap's one mile route.

"I heard it's very hot in Chicagoland since Damascus is already stabled at Belmont, we'd rather keep him there than ship to Chicago," Whitely said.

Dr. Fager, owned by Tartan Farm, definitely is committed to the Washington Handicap carrying top weight of 134, two pounds more than had been assigned to Damascus for their prospective fifth and rubber meeting.

However, Damascus' stalemate, swift-starting Hedevar — in at only 112 pounds — also is listed in a probable field of nine in the Washington Handicap.

Dr. Fager, who split four races with Damascus covering this season and last year, may be running his last time before retiring to stud. His trainer, Johnny Nerud, his indicated the 4-year-old colt would retire to Tartan Farm at the end of the current racing season.

This year, Damascus and Dr. Fager each won four stakes. Dr. Fager is due to arrive from New York Thursday.

Mustangs Add Center, Cut Eight Players

Omaha (UPI) — The Omaha Mustangs Wednesday placed eight players on waivers and announced the signing of another player.

General manager Jack Payne said the team's roster is now down to the 40-player limit authorized by league regulations.

Signed by the club was Jerry Wilks, a 6-4, 260-pound center. He had played with the club last year but was sold to Pittsburgh at the end of the season. Wilks had been released from the Pittsburgh training camp.

Placed on waivers were Ray Rivera, Bob Payne, John Gilmore, Larry Wachholtz, Tony Notarides, Charles Winters, Morrie Bantner and Ed Placek.

Axtell Marksman 4th In Nationals

Camp Perry, Ohio (AP) — National Guard Lt. Gary L. Anderson of Axtell, Neb., finished fourth in the National High-Powered Rifle Championship Wednesday.

Anderson, a former Olympic champion, finished with 1,561 points out of a possible 1,600.

The winner was Middleton Tompkins of Long Beach, Calif., a former collegiate high-power rifle champ, who finished with a four-day score of 1,568. Samuel C. Burkhalter of Oconomowoc, Wis., a former Army Reserve marksman, finished second with 1,565.

Third place went to Marine Lt. Donice Barlett of Quantico, Va. with 1,562.

Lincolnites' Pit Stop 2nd At Arlington

Chicago (AP) — Jet's Kingdom got up in the final stride for a half length win over Pit Stop, owned by Mrs. W. C. Eddy of Lincoln, Neb., and John Landreth of Chicago, in the $33,000 Grassland Handicap at Arlington Park Wednesday.

Pit Stop, trained by Lincolnite Dick Eddy, was just a neck ahead of third-place finisher Te Vega, the odds-on favorite in the 1 1-16 mile race for three-year-olds.

Jet's Kingdom, scoring his first stakes victory, gave jockey Laffit Pincay Jr., his fourth triumph of the day to solidify his first place spot at the meeting.

The winner, owned by Gene Goff of Fayetteville, Ark., earned $19,800 and was clocked in 1:46 4-5. Jet's Kingdom returned $19.00, $8.20 and $3.40, while Pit Stop paid $4.80 and $3.00 and Te Vega $2.40.

Graebner-Pasarell Duo Upset In U.S. National

Brookline, Mass. (AP) — Clark Graebner and Charlie Pasarell, America's No. 1 Davis Cup doubles tandem, were eliminated in another shocker Wednesday as upsets continued at a startling rate in the 88th U.S. National Tennis Championships.

Unheralded Elio Alvarez and Modesto Vasquez, UCLA students from Argentina, breezed to a 6-4, 6-4 third round doubles victory over Graebner and Pasarell, who teamed last Saturday for a triumph over Spain in the Davis Cup interzone matches in Cleveland.

Alvarez and Basquez advanced to the quarter-finals as unseeded partners. Graebner and Pasarell were the second-seeded American team, rated just behind Bob Lutz and Stan Smith of the University of Southern California, who overpowered Tom Gorman and Dick Knight of Seattle, Wash., 6-2, 6-3.

Lutz, best known for his outstanding doubles play, earlier upset Cliff Richey 6-3, 6-2, 6-2 in advancing to the singles quarter-finals as the seeded ranks dwindled sharply on the sixth day of the tournament.

Ignored in the singles seedings, Lutz, who will be 21 next week, whipped the four-seeded Richey despite 12 double faults on the chewed up turf of the far court in the stadium at Longwood.

Arthur Ashe, the top-seeded American who arrived late from the Davis Cup interzone matches with Spain, posted a third round victory, defeating Ron Goldman of Chevy Chase, Md., 8-6, 6-3, 6-2.

Clark Graebner, another U.S. Davis Cupper, moved into the quarter-finals with a 6-3, 6-4, 10-8 fourth round victory over Premjit Lall of India.

Omahans Rout 1st Legion Foe

Williston, N.D. (UPI) — St. Paul, Waterloo, Iowa, Omaha, Neb., and Midwest City, Okla. were victorius here Wednesday in the forst round of the Region Six American Legion double - elimination tournament.

In the second-round losers bracket Thursday, Hays, Kan., will play Grand Forks, N.D., and Pierre will play Williston.

In the winners bracket Thursday night, it will be Waterloo against St. Paul and Omaha against Midwest.

Omaha's James Jacobsen hurled seven faultless innings and Ed Teshack belted two home runs and collected five RBIs to lead their team to a 10-1 rout over Pierre, S.D. Teshack's first blast came in the first and his second in the fifth inning as Omaha unleashed a 15-hit attack to completely overpower the South Dakotans.

KU Gridders Home-Grown

. . . 15 NATIVE STARTERS

Rodgers, starting his second year as Jayhawk head coach, considers 15 of his 22 starters as Kansas grown and has 11 native born Kansans on his no. 2 units.

Rodgers' pre-season depth chart shops eight offensive first-stringers are native Kansans: Dave Aikins, Erie, guard; Dale Evans, Russell, center; Ken Wertzberger, Lawrence, guard; Keith Crristensen, Concordia, tackle; John Mosier, Wichita, end; Bob Douglass, El Dorado, quarterback; Jcnior Riggins, Centralia, tailback, and fullback Mike Reeves of Concordia.

Defensive starters from Kansas include end John Zook of Larned, halfback Mickey Doyle of Kansas City, Kan., linebacker Tommy Ball of Manhattan, safety Skip James of Shawnee Mission and tackle Bill Greene of Ottawa.

Vanoy is from Kansas City, Mo., an area heavily recruited by Kansas, Kansas State University and the University of Missouri. Hutchens was born in Wichita, Kan., and spent most of his life there until his father became a Red Cross field representative and received assignments in Arkansas, Iowa and Michigan.

Other native Kansans Rodgers is heavily counting on include linebackers Tommy Anderson of Topeka, Levi Lee of Topeka and Rick Abernetgy of Kansas City, Kan.; fullbacks John Riggins of Centralia and Steve Lukert of Sabetha; deftnsive ends Steve Carmichael of Mulvane and Gary Davenport of Wellsville; defensive tackle Jim Bailey and defensive back Keith Lieppman, both of the Kansas City area, and No. 2 quarterback Jimmy Ettinger, who was born in Lawrence just two weeks after his father played for Kansas in the 1947 Orange Bowl game.

After losing its first three games under Rodgers last year, the Jayhawks tied Colorado for second in the Big Eight in 1967, earning the ex-UCLA assistant conference "co-coach of the year" honors with Jim Fairbanks of champion Oklahoma.

Rodgers assembles the Jayhawks Aug. 29. Workouts begin Aug. 30 and two-a-day drills are slated to start Sept. 3.

Moose Wind Up Year With 22-7 Standing

The Lincoln Moose completed a 22-7 season and 8-5 mark in Dodge County League baseball play Tuesday night with a 7-4 win over Lyons at Sherman Field.

Winning pitcher Phil Krous survived a three-run first inning and held the visitors ih check the rest of the way with a 13-strikeout performance. Leading the 11-hit Moose attack was John McEniry with three hits in five trips.

Softball Diamond Named For SF Outfielder Mays

New York (AP) — Willie Mays, San Francisco outfielder, came home Wednesday t the old Polo Grounds and saw a softball field named for him on the site where he began his big league baseball career 17 years ago.

Mayor John V. Lindsay praised Mays, 37, as "one of the greatest of tre New York Giants and an inspiration to all."

A housing project, the Polo Grounds Towers, which will house 1600 families in four 30-story buildings, and a softball field are being constructed on the site of tht Polo Grounds.

Kearney Tackle Curtright Earns South Starting Role

. . . NORTH WORKS ON KICKING GAME

By Associated Press

The South Shrine football team will wind up two-a-day drills Thursday at Crete in preparation for Saturday's clash with the North in Memorial Stadium at the University of Nebraska.

Thursday and Friday drills will be devoted to polishing both the offensive and defensive units, head coach Ken Reiners said after Wednesday workouts.

Reiners said he will announce his lineups on Friday.

He said Norm Curtright of Kearney has "earned a job as starting offensive tackle."

He also said Bernie Hospodka of Omaha Bishop Ryan, held out of contract for two days with a cut lip, is rounding into good shape and will see duty as offensive guard.

Reiners said back Terry Borcher of Pawnee City is "adjusting well from Class C ball and will see lots of action."

Back Terry Peterson of Kearney, who Reiners said "has been under the weather," hasn't had time to hit full stride.

The South coach said "Timing is picking up and starting to look as it should."

Reiners said he expects to use a "balanced attack, both rushing and passing."

Head coach Leonard Bond of Omaha North had Bill Kosch of Columbus Scotus and Joe Sobota of Schuyler doing the punting.

Fremont's Scott Daniel was used as the deep man.

Some time was spent on goal line defense during the session. Craig Argersinger, an end from Omaha Benson, was impressive in practice. "He's looking better every day," commented Bond.

The squad worked out without pads under high temperatures.

Omahans Invite Kaycee Backing

Omaha (AP) — The Mayor's Advisory Committee voted unanimously Wednesday to invite the Kansas City Royals to back a Triple-A baseball club in Omaha.

The agreement was reached at an afternoon meeting following talks with representatives of the Royals and with the Chicago Cubs. The Cubs, represented by Gene Lawing, manager of farm system operations, had no specific proposal to make to Omaha.

Steelers Finally Sign Holdout Tackle Parker

Palo Alto, Calif. (AP) — The Pittsburgh Steelers said Wednesday that Frank Parker, a holdout defensive tackle, has signed a contract with the National Football League club.

Parker was acquired in a four-man trade with the Cleveland Browns but refused to report to Pittsburgh, saying the Steelers didn't offer him enough money. Terms of the new contract weren't announced.

Czech Invasion Clips Wings Of Doves At Plank Hearings

Washington — The wings of Doves appeared Wednesday to have been clipped by the Czech crisis just as they were preparing to launch a concerted attempt to incorporate a peace plank in the Democratic platform.

Overnight, what had been shaping up as a major fight within the Democratic Platform Committee over the Vietnam plank seemed to be transformed into a vocal fruitless protest by a minority of doves on the 110-man committee.

As the committee concluded three days of hearings here and flew to Chicago for the final round of hearings before drafting the platform, the doves were still trying to each agreement on the wording and strategy for a peace plank that would depart from administration policy and still not criticize the administration.

Administration Endorsement

Committee members who will have a key role in drafting the platform believe the Soviet intervention in Czechoslovakia will reinforce the majority committee sentiment in favor of a simple plank calling for an early but honorable peace while still, in effect, endorsing the administration's guiding policy of "collective security" in Vietnam.

Indicative was the comment of Rep. Hale Boggs of California, the committee chairman, who said the Soviet intervention "further demonstrates that the world must continue to rely on the principle of collective security."

Publicly, the doves claimed that the Soviet intervention in Czechoslovakia supported their case for ending what they considered American intervention in Vietnam. But privately, they admitted that their political task was much more difficult in swinging the party around to a peace plank.

Reflecting the arguments advanced by many doves, Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy said in a statement that "the events of yesterday make it all the more necessary that the involvement in Vietnam had weakened the American capacity to protest the Soviet intervention.

Rusk Had Spoken

The intra-party fight over Vietnam policy took an abrupt turn last evening just as the doves were squaring off for a confrontation with their arch antagonist, Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

Rusk had just finished a statement defending the American involvement in Vietnam as an extension of the postwar policy of collective security against Communist aggression and calling upon the committee to adopt a plank calling for "an early but honorable peace that will enable the free peoples of Asia to live together in freedom."

As the doves jumped for microphones to question the secretary, it was annocnced that Soviet troops had invaded Czechoslovakia. Rusk left immediately for the White House, leaving the doves standing speechless at their microphones.

McCarthy strategists acknowledged that their only hope of recapturing the momentum rested upon the admittedly slim possibility that the Czech crisis would have only a passing political impact, or that convention opinion would be swayed by the speech Wednesday by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy.

Supporters of McCarthy and McGovern and the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy will meet Thursday in Chicago in an attempt to reach agreement on a common peace plank outlining specific steps to reach a negotiated settlement of the Vietnam war.

Plotting Board Helps Shops' Car Repairing

The board, which was mounted in general car foreman Ed Spomer's office about two months ago, consists of a schematic diagram that shows the shop area, tracks, material yard and the location of cars to be repaired.

Spomer and his staff have found that by using the board, they can quickly and easily arrange for damaged cars to be switched to appropriate work areas, where the foremen have been able to immediately identify cars requiring instant attention.

Report $405 Annual Fuel Savings with LP-Gas

According to recent studies by Research Digest, a home which used LP-Gas for heating, cooking, water heating, and clothes drying can operate $405 less expensively than an "all-electric" home each year.

Using the values 2.5¢/kwh for electricity and 20¢/gal. for LP-Gas, the Digest projected a $8,100 savings, with LP-Gas, over a 20-year span.

Also, the added merits of "instant heat", faster water heater recovery, and overall dependability are frequently attributed to gas homes.

Cattle Prices Steady

Omaha (AP)— A somewhat mixed pricing pattern keyed trading in slaughter cattle at Omaha Wednesday.

Moderate marketing helped the selling side maintain a firm position for the most part and prices shaped up generally steady through much of the session. Heifer weakened on later rounds, however, with offerings scaling under nine hundred pounds coming under steady downward pressure.

The demand pattern followed the carcass market where choice steer beef over seven hundred pounds met reliable inquiry and firmed. Lighter carcassed edged lower Heifer beef was steady Tuesday before inching upward slightly early Wednesday.

Quality in the run was apparently as a fairly representative showing of well-finished offerings sold on upward to the $29 market peak. A total of nine loads of choice and prime 1,091-1,244 lb. fed beeves turned at $28.75-29.

Hogs: 5,500; barrows and gilts 25-50 higher; 1-3, 210-250 lb. 20.25-20.50; 2-4, 210-260 lb. 20.25-20.50; sows 25 higher; 267-425 lb. 16.50-19.25.

Cattle: 7,500; calves 25; steers and cows steady; heifers steady to weak; choice and prime 1,100-1,235 lb. steers 28.75-29.00; choice with end prime 28.35; choice 27.00-28.25; good and choice 26.50-27.25; choice and prime 980-1,050 lb. heifers 27.50; choice with end prime 27.25; choice 26.00-27.00; good and choice 25.00-26.00; utility and commercial cows 17.75-19.00, few 19.25-19.50.

I have told you about how this can be done up to two years of age. Alert parents will discover that during the year from two to three that the child's understanding of words has not increased and does not follow more complex demands than he previously did.

His speaking vocabulary has not increased!

The child would possibly have a gibberish language of his own and must watch the speaker's face and gestures closely to understand what is said.

If there is any indication of a hearing loss, bring it to the attention of your Pediatrician or Ear Doctor.

Stock Exchanges Close Wednesday

Soviet Invasion Influences Trade In Grain Market

Chicago (AP) — The invasion of Czechoslovakia by Soviet Russian and other Communist troops tended to influence some buying of soybean and grain futures on the Chicago Board of Trade Wednesday.

Trade moved at a good pace and involved all facets on both sides, although initially buying was mostly by brokers with commission house connections.

At the close of grain trade, wheat was ¾ to 1⅜ cents a bushel higher, September 1.21⅜; corn was ⅜ to ⅞ higher, September 1.06¾; oats were 1⅜ to 1⅝ higher, September 59⅜ cents; rye was ⅜ to ½ higher, September 1.11 and soybeans were 1¼ to 4 cents higher, August 2.70½.
